Provenance

Musselman Library Special Collections and College Archives received Gary T. Hawbaker Collection as a donation from Gary T. Hawbaker, Class of 1966, on November 21, 2013 and March 13, 2014. College publications, like the Gettysburg Magazine, were removed from his initial donation and added as needed to the Magazine collection.

Biography

Gary T. Hawbaker graduated from Gettysburg College in 1966 with a bachelor’s degree in history and teaching certification. He grew up in Fort Loudon, Pennsylvania where he lived with his parents, Samuel Stanley Hawbaker and Sara Elizabeth Elliott Hawbaker, and his two siblings, sister, Sonja Grewel, and brother, Edwin Hawbaker. They moved to Fort Loudon in 1945 when Samuel moved his trapping and hunting store, S. Stanley Hawbaker & Sons, there from Greencastle. While in Fort Loudon, Hawbaker attended James Buchanan Junior High and High School.

Gary Hawbaker attended Gettysburg College from 1962 to 1966. While at Gettysburg, he was a member of Eta Sigma Phi, the Classics honor society, and Pennsylvania State Education Association-National Education Association for prospective teachers. Hawbaker was also involved with the Adams County Republican Committee and attended several of their dinners.

Hawbaker entered Gettysburg intending to become a Physics major. He took Physics 111 only to discover that Physics was not his calling and switched to History. Being a member of the education program, he took part in the Town Tutoring Program and completed his student teaching requirement by teaching 9th grade at South Western High School. There his focus was placed on Pennsylvania state history and the history of William Penn.

After graduating from Gettysburg College, Hawbaker received graduate master’s degree from Pennsylvania State University and went on to be an educator for the next thirty years. He continued researching and writing history throughout his career and published several books. The first one, Fort Loudon, On the Frontier, published in 1976, followed the French and Indian War era fort that his hometown was named after.
His other publications include a quarterly genealogical magazine and pre-1790 index volumes of tax records on Pennsylvania’s Lancaster County published in the 1980s, numerous additional books on various aspects of Lancaster County history, Runaways, Rascals, and Rogues (1987), Dear William, Letters from Home 1796-1862 (2008), and 75th Anniversary Battle of Gettysburg: A Photographic Essay of the 1938 Reunion (2009) which was put on display for the 2011 Reunion Weekend Alumni Authors Exhibit at Gettysburg College.

Gary T. Hawbaker is currently retired and spends his time researching various projects and tending to his orchid collection.

Scope and Content Notes

This collection consists primarily of papers collected by Gary T. Hawbaker from his time as a prospective student up to his graduation from Gettysburg College in 1966. One particular area of strength in this collection is course materials. It includes papers, notes, and blue book exams for almost all of Hawbaker’s courses each semester and provides a snapshot of the history, education, and general curriculum of the early to mid-1960s. It is worth noting that while Hawbaker was a student, Gettysburg College’s fall semester extended into January and the spring semester extended into May. The rest of the collection contains materials pertaining to outside the classroom, some Hawbaker received from the College as a student, others as an alumnus. These materials range from letters, yearbooks, textbooks, photographs of events, programs from events, a bowling ball and bowling ball case, and jackets that carry the Gettysburg College emblem. Together, this collection provides a complete look at what Hawbaker’s undergraduate career looked like.

Series Description

This collection is divided into three series: I. Coursework; II. Gettysburg College Correspondence and Student Publications; and III. Artifacts from the College.

Series I is organized by academic year: 1962-1963, 1963-1964, 1964-1965, and 1965-1966. For each class, course materials are kept together in order to provide a comprehensive look at individual course requirements such as Hawbaker’s typed and handwritten notes, blue books from exams, rough and completed drafts of papers, and handouts from professors. There is some overlap of materials between Education 305 and materials from Hawbaker’s student teaching; this is due to Education 305’s purpose to prepare prospective teachers for the classroom.
Series II contains letters sent to Hawbaker from administrators that are primarily condensed around when he was applying to Gettysburg College and when he was an incoming freshman. The remainder of the correspondence is papers he received later as a student or as an alumnus of Gettysburg College. There are also a couple papers that are from Hawbaker’s time as a teacher. The student publications in Series II are ones that Hawbaker collected while a student that are either official publications or programs for events that span from 1962-1966. This series also contains photographs that Hawbaker took while at sporting events or of his freshman floor in Rice Hall.

Series III is made up of artifacts that Hawbaker collected while attending Gettysburg College such as official College memorabilia and clothing.
