A Gettysburg education is the surest path toward developing the kind of intellectual power the world needs. From day one, Gettysburg prepares its students to be thinkers and doers—engaged citizens who care about making great progress. For whatever career path you may choose, Gettysburg helps students to translate their experience into a career direction. Our results speak for themselves.

Three methods were used to collect the alumni placement data for the 2013 graduating class: the One-Year-Out alumni survey, the HEDS Senior Survey, and a LinkedIn search. The final combined sample from all three sources consists of 514 graduates. The participation rate was 87 percent.

The One-Year-Out Alumni Outcomes Study was conducted by the Office of Institutional Analysis in collaboration with the Center for Career Development.

How Students Find Jobs

2013 alums said that their alumni contacts, internships, and faculty relationships were the most successful methods they used to land their first job.
