

ECONOMICS (MACROECONOMICS AND MONETARY ECONOMICS)

The Department of Economics announces a search for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor rank, effective August, 2010. Applicants must have research and teaching interests in macroeconomics. We are especially interested in candidates who can also contribute to the department's depth in Political Economy, International Economics, or Development Economics. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Economics by the time of appointment and demonstrate potential for strong teaching and significant accomplishments in research. To support faculty in their research endeavors, Gettysburg College offers a five-course teaching load per year, a pre-tenure sabbatical program, generous travel allowances, and financial support through competitive grants.

Gettysburg College is a highly selective liberal arts college located within 90 minutes of the Baltimore/Washington metropolitan area. Established in 1832, the College has a rich history and is situated on a 220-acre campus with an enrollment of over 2,600 students. Gettysburg College celebrates diversity and welcomes applications from members of any group that has been historically underrepresented in the American academy. The College assures equal employment opportunity and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender, religion, sexual orientation, age, and disability.

Priority will be given to applications received by December 1, 2009. Send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a sample of current research, and three reference letters (at least one addressing teaching ability) to: Tenure Track Search Committee, Economics Department, Box 391, Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, PA 17325. Electronic submissions are encouraged and may be sent to Sue Holz at sholz@gettysburg.edu. Include Tenure Track Search in subject line.
