

Dear Colleagues:

The Johnson Center for Creative Teaching is delighted to offer you a wonderful opportunity. The 7th "Teaching Professor" Conference will be held at the Hyatt Regency Cambridge in Cambridge, Massachusetts from May 21 to May 23, 2010. The registration fee, which includes plenaries, workshops, an opening night reception, two lunches and two breakfasts, is $469 a person but $439 for 5 or more people. The JCCT would like to take advantage of this reduced rate and sponsor the participation of 10 faculty members. The JCCT will also cover the cost of both hotel and airfare.

This three-day conference is filled with events to enrich your teaching. The plenary sessions are keynoted by nationally recognized experts and the concurrent sessions on a range of relevant topics are carefully selected. In addition, there are roundtable discussions, posters and many opportunities for informal interaction. Recent books on teaching and learning as well as other valuable higher education resources are available for review and purchase. But apparently what makes the conference most memorable for those who attend is the energy that surrounds all the activities! You may consult the conference website <http://www.teachingprofessor.com/conference> for more information.

In order for the Johnson Center for Creative Teaching to take advantage of the group rate we must register by October 30. If you wish to attend please respond with an e-mail to jcct@gettysburg.edu by October 28. We will sponsor participants on a first come, first served basis and must limit participation to one faculty member per department. Please note that only in the case of an emergency can we allow a faculty member to cancel.

Cordially,
Elizabeth Richardson Viti
Associate Provost for Faculty Development and Professor of French
