Summer internships in mathematics are plentiful and accessible. Come hear about Kelly’s experience at the Department of Defense, in the Mathematical Research Department, and Abby’s statistical work for New Jersey Manufacturers’ Insurance Company. Kelly and Abby will describe how they found out about the opportunities, what the application process was like and what math they used in their work. If you’re interested in finding a math internship for next summer, this is one place to start!

Lunch will be available for colloquium guests after the talk.
