MS – 163: The Gettysburg College Experience
Class of 1963

G. Ronald Couchman
July 2016
Provenance: The Planning Committee for the 50th reunion celebration for the Class of 1963 indorsed the idea of including, within the schedule of events, a class exhibit to be located in the Special Collections Reading Room of Musselman Library. To prepare for the exhibit, members of the class were asked to provide materials and memorabilia from their time at the college. The exhibit included printed materials from college programs, college publications, scrapbooks, textbooks from the period, photographs of faculty and staff, and numerous artifacts from Greek life, athletics, and other student life and academic programs and activities. Members of the class donated many of these materials to be included in this manuscript collection.

Historical Note: On September 19, 1959, 497 students matriculated at Gettysburg College as members of the Class of 1963. During orientation activities they bonded as a class. Over the next four years they completed a vigorous academic program of study and made significant contributions to the life of the college through student government, athletics, music, drama, clubs and organizations, religious programs and the fraternity and sorority system. At the June 1963 Commencement Exercises, 341 members of the class received Bachelor’s degrees and entered into productive lives in education, religion, law, medicine, public service, the military and business. Their association with the college did not end at graduation but continued over the years in service to the institution as members of the Board of Trustees, the Alumni Council, as a Commencement speaker and as employees. Members of the class have funded scholarships and awards and have made significant contribution to the Gettysburg Fund and the Orange & Blue Fund. The College has recognized members with honorary degrees, distinguished alumni and meritorious service awards and selection to the College Athletic Hall of Honor. In addition, members of the class have returned to the campus often for class reunions and other college events.
Scope and Content Notes: The collection includes printed materials from college sponsored programs, college publications, scrapbooks, correspondence between a student and her family, textbooks from the required course GE 201-202: Literary Foundations of Western Culture, numerous documents and artifacts from Greek life, athletics, student life, and academic programs and activities. The collection presents a helpful overview of the academic program and student life at the college during the early 1960s, and follows the interaction of class members with the college as active alumni, highlighting their service to the college, honors and awards received, and activities during class reunions. Of special interest are legacy statements written by class members reflecting on their time at the college and how those experiences shaped their careers and lives after graduation.

Subjects: Gettysburg College History, student life early 1960s, Gettysburg College alumni, fraternities, sororities, Vietnam War

Series Description:

This collection is divided into seven Series. Series 1: College Programs and Publications, Series 2: Academics, Series 3: Student Life, Series 4: Service to the College, Honors and Awards, Series 5: Legacy Statements, Series 6: Class Reunions, Series 7: Military Service
