Panhellenic Recruitment Guidelines

Women participating in recruitment must follow their schedule and attend all chapters to which they are assigned. Failure to do so may result in the PNM being removed from the process.

Potential New Members should not bring anything to a sorority’s room nor take anything with them, such as gifts, with them when they leave a suite.

Conversation topics during recruitment should not include alcohol, men, or money.

PNM’s should be respectful of the women in every chapter room they visit. Inappropriate behavior may result in the PNM being removed from the process.
At the end of the first two formal rounds, PNM’s must rank every chapter they visited.

Fully participating in recruitment through preference round does not have any negative impact on a PNM’s ability to go through the recruitment process again. Women are encouraged to continue all three days, even if their first choice is no longer an option.

Signing a preference card after the third round is a binding commitment and PNM’s should be thoughtful in doing so.

There is no limit on how many women will be placed in sororities during recruitment. However, there is a quota per chapter based on the overall total.
Panhellenic Recruitment Terminology

Bid – invitation of membership to join a sorority

Snap Bid – chapters that do not fill to quota can offer snap bids prior to the Bid Night ceremony; this option is not available after Bid Night ceremonies begin

Single-Intention Preference – after preference round a PNM who visited two chapters ranks only one on her preference card

Continuous Open Bidding (COB) – chapters who did not fill to quota or are below the average sorority size may offer bids throughout the year to interested new members
New Member Education

New Member Education can be a time consuming educational process that will involve NM’s learning about the sorority’s history and values.

This process should never include alcohol or hazing.

The new member process will conclude with the initiation ritual prescribed by the inter/national organization by Monday, November 6th. Not all chapters will end at the same time.

Parents’ Webinar: Tuesday, September 19th, 7-8pm EST
Becoming a member of the Greek community is a financial commitment. New members will be billed for association fees, initiation fees and badges. Each semester there will be chapter dues and national organization fees.

Joining a sorority is a time commitment. There are standing weekly meetings and events throughout the semester at which all members are expected to be present. Women can then choose for themselves how much additional involvement in leadership roles they can handle.

Being a member of a sorority means that individual behavior and academic success reflects on that of the entire chapter. Women in sororities must positively represent themselves and maintain high academic standing or they can be sanctioned by the chapter, which could affect their future membership.
What Role Can Family Members Play?

Encourage your daughter to keep an open mind about each chapter
Remind her that sororities are only one of the many student groups on campus
Maintain a balance of checking in to hear her thoughts and concerns and also allowing her to process alone if she prefers
Encourage your student to make decisions independently
Remind her to balance academics and co-curricular commitments
