Introduction

The purpose of this booklet is to let Gettysburg students know about some of the numerous opportunities available to them in the way of scholarships, fellowships, grants, internships, etc. during their time at the College and immediately following graduation.

Most of the scholarship and fellowship descriptions apply to U.S. citizens but those that clearly state they are open to international students are marked with an asterisk.

Please do not rely solely on the deadlines either stated or approximated in the descriptions as these are always subject to change and/or had not yet been included on the respective websites at the time that this booklet was printed. Please note--YOU NEED TO GO TO THE WEBSITE TO DOUBLE-CHECK THE DEADLINE and any other changes which may have occurred to application submission requirements.

Keep in mind that all these opportunities are quite competitive so you need to put together the best application possible. If you need assistance and/or if you have any other questions about what’s contained in the booklet, please contact Assistant Provost Maureen Forrestal (mforrest@gettysburg.edu) and she will get back to you as soon as possible.
Fellowships & Scholarships

Academy of Television Arts & Sciences’ Fred Rogers Memorial Scholarship: The $10,000 scholarship supports and encourages aspiring upper division undergraduates or graduate students (Masters, PhD) who demonstrate a commitment, either through coursework or experience, to any combination of at least two of the following fields: early childhood education, child development/child psychology, film/television production, music, animation. Applicant must have the ultimate goal of working in the field of children’s media. Deadline is mid-January.

http://emmysfoundation.org/how-apply-1

AAMC Financing Your Medical Education: A series of programs to assist students in managing loans and preparing for future financial stability within the Medical field. Deadlines variable. www.aamc.org/students/financing/start.htm
All-USA College Academic Team : Recognition program for exceptional full-time undergraduates at four-year institutions in the USA and its territories. Recipients named on the First Team each receive a trophy and a $2,500 cash award. Forty more runners-up named to the Second and Third Teams receive certificates. Deadline: late-November.

American Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences’ Nicholl Fellowships in Screenwriting: Offers five fellowships annually to writers preparing for a screenwriting career but who have not yet been paid more than $5,000 to write a screenplay or teleplay. The amount of the award is $30,000 and there’s a $30 submission fee. Entry deadline is in May each year.
http://www.oscars.org/awards/nicholl/apply.html

American Association of University Women (AAUW) International Fellowships: Awarded to ensure that fellows in the master’s degree programs return to their home countries with full academic credentials. AAUW will award up to 6 renewable International Fellowships annually. Deadline is usually around the 1st of August each year.
http://www.aauw.org/learn/fellowships_grants/international.cfm

American Council of Learned Societies East European Language Training Fellowships: Offers grants up to $2,500 for intensive summer study of Albanian, Bosnian-Croatian-Serbian, Bulgarian, Macedonian, or Romanian. The application should specify the name of the institution they wish to attend and a statement of the significance of this training for their career plans. In most cases, proposals for beginning or intermediate level should be for attendance at intensive courses offered by institutions of higher education in the US, although, in exceptional cases, proposals for study in Southeast Europe will be considered. Applicants must be citizens or permanent residents of the U.S. and must have completed, at minimum, a four-year college degree. Website: www.acls.org/grants/
American Meteorological Society Industry Undergraduate Scholarships: Designed to encourage undergraduates to pursue careers in the atmospheric and related oceanic and hydrologic sciences, scholarships are available to full-time students entering their junior year. Students are eligible if they are enrolled in a program leading to a bachelor's degree in science or engineering and have demonstrated a clear intent to pursue a career in the atmospheric or related oceanic or hydrologic sciences following completion of appropriate specialized education at the graduate level. Applicants must have completed 2 years of study at an accredited institution with a minimum GPA of 3.25 on a 4.0-point scale and be US citizens. A $4000 stipend, $2000 for the junior year and $2000 for the senior year, will be presented to each scholarship recipient. Application deadline is early February.

American Nuclear Society Undergraduate Scholarships: A maximum of four scholarships for students who have completed one year in a course of study leading to a degree in nuclear science, nuclear engineering, or a nuclear-related field and who will be sophomores in the upcoming academic year; and a maximum of 21 scholarships for students who have completed two or more years and will be entering as juniors or seniors. ANS also awards individual undergraduate scholarships for students who have completed two or more years in a course of study leading to a degree in nuclear science, nuclear engineering, or a nuclear-related field. For more information, visit http://www.ans.org/honors/scholarships/

American Scandinavian Foundation offers fellowships (up to $23,000) to individuals to pure research or study in one or more of the Scandinavian countries for up to one year. Awards are made in all fields. There is also a grant of $5,000 available to pursue study or research in one or more Scandinavian countries. The ASF considers it desirable that all candidates have at least some ability in the language of the host country, even if it is not essential for the execution of the research plan. Application deadline is early November. Website: http://www.amscan.org/
American Sociological Association Minority Fellowships: Support the development and training of sociologists of color in mental illness and disorders and related co-morbidities (i.e., alcohol and drug abuse). The fellowship seeks to attract students interested in mental illness and disorders issues. The MFP is primarily designed for minority students entering a doctoral program in sociology for the first time or for those who are in the early stages of their graduate programs. Fellows are selected on the basis of their commitment to research in mental illness, academic achievement, scholarship, writing ability, research potential, financial need, and racial/ethnic minority background. Applicants must be members of specified racial/ethnic groups. Application deadline is late January. http://www.asanet.org/funding/mfp.cfm

Lenore Annenberg Teaching Fellowships: The Fellowship offers a stipend of $30,000 to complete a master’s degree program, in exchange for a commitment to teach for three years in high-need secondary urban or rural schools. The program provides Fellows with this stipend to support their preparation for teaching, including an in-depth clinical experience. Once their preparation is complete, Fellows are part of a cohort teaching in high-need schools. The schools, along with university partners, provide mentoring and support throughout the three-year Fellowship period. The Fellowship is administered by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation in close partnership with the participating universities--Stanford University, the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Virginia, and the University of Washington. http://woodrow.org/fellowship-page/annenberg-teaching-fellowship-faq/

Armenian Students Association of Americas, Inc.: Full-time students of Armenian ancestry are eligible to apply for scholarships of $500 to $1,500 per year. Applicants should be able to demonstrate financial need and good academic performance. Deadline: mid-March. http://www.asainc.org/national/scholarships.shtml
Art Therapy Association Scholarships: Various scholarships and grants. Application deadlines for all fall in mid-July each year. http://www.americanarttherapyassociation.org/aata-awards.html

*Asian Cultural Council: Individual fellowship grants to artists, scholars, students, and specialists from Asia for study, research, travel, and creative work in the United States. Deadlines variable. http://www.asianculturalcouncil.org/?page_id=26

*Asian Development Bank (ADB) - Japan Scholarship Program: Full scholarships for one to two years for citizens of ADB's developing member countries pursuing postgraduate studies in development-related fields at participating academic institutions in the Asian and Pacific Region. Deadlines variable. http://www.adb.org/JSP/default.asp

*Association for International Agriculture and Rural Development (AIARD) Scholarship Program: Gives competitive scholarships to nurture and to provide partial financial support to students for attending both 1) the AIARD Annual Conference and 2) the annual Future Leaders Forum in Washington, D.C. Scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis to students who have a sincere interest in international agriculture and rural development issues and their solutions. The Future Leaders Forum includes a day and a half of visits to agencies, companies and organizations (i.e. USAID, USDA-FAS & CSREES, World Bank, Peace Corps, UN/FAO, Chemonics, Dupont/Pioneer International, Millennium Challenge Corporation) engaged in international agriculture and rural development. Scholarships are intended to partially cover expenses related to travel, lodging, registration fees and meals, and students receiving the scholarships will be responsible for obtaining additional funding to cover the costs of travel to and participation in the Future Leaders Forum. Undergraduate or graduate students, foreign and American are encouraged to apply. Application deadline is usually in April. www.aiard.org/meetings/2010annual/student.htm
Association for Women in Science Educational Foundation: Graduate fellowships of $1,000 per year for female students enrolled in a behavioral, life, physical, or social science or engineering program leading to a Ph.D. Deadline: January.
http://www.awis.org/displaycommon.cfm?an=1&subarticlenbr=333

Austrian Government English Teaching Assistantships:
The purpose of this program, which draws assistants not only from the US but also from France, Italy, Russia, and Spain, is to bring talented and enthusiastic young people from abroad into the classrooms of secondary schools in communities large and small all over Austria. U.S. assistants teach 13 hours per week, usually at two different schools, under the supervision of licensed teachers and a “supervisor” assigned to keep track of their overall performance and troubleshoot, if need be. They receive a salary of ca. €1,397 per month for eight months, from which deductions are made for health and accident insurance (full coverage under the Austrian plans) and income tax. This results in a net income of approximately €1,105 per month. Graduating seniors may apply, provided they have their degrees before assuming the positions. Complete applications are due January 15, 2015 for the following school year. For further information on the program, application materials, and advice on application procedures, consult the Commission’s website: http://www.usta-austria.at Beinecke Scholarship: The program seeks to encourage and enable highly motivated Juniors to pursue opportunities available to them and to be courageous in the selection of a graduate course of study in the arts, humanities and social sciences. Each scholar receives $4,000 immediately prior to entering graduate school and an additional $30,000 while attending graduate school. Requires and institutional endorsement. Institutional deadline is January 19, 2015.

http://fdnweb.org/beinecke/program/
BioQuip Undergraduate Scholarship: A $2000 scholarship is offered to assist students to achieve their goal of pursuing a career as an entomologist. The student must have a minimum of 90 credit hours by 9/1 following the application deadline, and either completed two junior-level entomology courses or have a research project in entomology. Preference will be given to students with demonstrated financial need. Application packages must be received by July 1st each year. www.entsoc.org/awards/student/bioquip.htm

BMI Student Composer Awards: For young composers of classical music. Applicants must be citizens of countries in the Western Hemisphere and must be either enrolled in accredited public, private or parochial secondary schools, in accredited colleges or conservatories of music, or engaged in private study of music with recognized and established teachers. Applicants must be under the age of 28 as of the competition postmark deadline which is usually in early February. A special William Schuman Prize is awarded to the composer whose work is judged “most outstanding” in the competition. Additionally, two special Carlos Surinach Prizes, underwritten by a fund established by the late composer, are awarded annually to the two youngest winners of the competition. http://www.bmifoundation.org/program/bmi_student_composer_awards

Boren Fellowships: Boren Awards provide up to $30,000 in funding opportunities for graduate students to study in Africa, Asia, Central and Eastern Europe, Eurasia, Latin American, and the Middle East, where they can add important international and language components to their education. http://www.borenawards.org/boren_fellowship/how_apply.html

The application deadline for 2015-16 is January 27, 2015.
Bourse Chateaubriand Fellowship: Funds doctoral students enrolled in American universities to conduct research in France for up to 12 months. Fellows receive a stipend, a round trip ticket to France, and health insurance. Application deadline is December 15th. For more information, http://www.frenchculture.org/spip.php?rubrique427&tout=ok

Eric Breindel Journalism Collegiate Award: A $10,000 award is presented to the undergraduate columnist, editorialist or reporter whose work best reflects the spirit of the writing of Eric Breindel—Love of country and its democratic institutions as well as the act of bearing witness to the evils of totalitarianism. Submissions may include college newspapers, magazines or periodicals as well as college online articles published on accredited college Web sites. There is a $10.00 entry fee. Deadline: usually mid-April. http://www.ericbreindel.org/sub_under.html

Bridging Scholarships for Undergraduate Study in Japan: Students majoring in any field are eligible to apply for these scholarships. Japanese language study is not a prerequisite. Must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents and enrolled as undergraduates in a college or university in the U.S. before and during the time they are studying abroad. Bridging Scholarship recipients receive a stipend of $2,500 (for students on semester-long programs) or $4,000 (for students on academic year programs). Students studying in Japan on summer programs are not eligible to apply. The deadline for receipt of applications should be announced in January 2015. http://www.aatj.org/atj/studyabroad/scholarships.html

British Marshall Scholarship: Highly competitive scholarships which finance exceptionally talented young Americans to study for a graduate degree in the United Kingdom. Scholarships include a personal allowance to cover residence and cost of living expenses; an arrival allowance in the first year; payment of tuition and fees; grant for books; annual grant for approved travel in connection with studies; and cost of preparation of any thesis submitted for examinations. Institutional deadline is September 1, 2014. http://www.marshallscholarship.org
Cambridge Overseas Trust: Established by the University of Cambridge, UK in order to support international students. Offers full and part scholarships at all levels. Applications are made to the University, not the trust. Some scholarships require additional application to a funding partner. Deadline is early December. http://www.cambridgetrusts.org/scholarships/

Canon Collins Trust Scholarships: Awarded to students from South Africa, Namibia, Botswana, Swaziland, Lesotho, Zimbabwe, Zambia, Malawi, Angola and Mozambique who wish to pursue a Master's in either the UK or South Africa. Canon Collins Trust scholarship holders are expected to use the knowledge, training, and skills acquired through their studies to contribute positively to the development of their home country. The UK scholarship is administered by the London Office; the South Africa scholarship is administered by the Cape Town office. The application process for UK scholarships runs from August to December, and for South Africa runs from April to August. www.canoncollins.org.uk/scholarships/index.php

Carpe Diem Foundation Scholarship: Merit-based scholarships in amounts of $2,500-5,000 to candidates who have demonstrated outstanding achievements, exceptional leadership ability, and commitment to community service. Awards can be used for tuition, books, room & board at an accredited educational institution. This includes colleges and universities, conservatories of music, schools of design and academies of the arts. Priority is given to students whose parents are employed in education, government, social services, public health, the administration of justice, and the fine arts. There is an application fee to cover processing costs. Deadline is early May. www.carpediemfoundation.org
Pete Carpenter Fellowship: Gives aspiring TV and film composers the opportunity to work with the eminent composer Mike Post at his studio in Los Angeles. The fellowship, which usually runs 4-5 weeks, includes a $3,000 stipend for travel and expenses and there are opportunities to meet with other distinguished theatrical, film and television composers and leaders in the entertainment industry. The fellowships are presented annually and are open to any composer under the age of 35. There is no citizenship requirement. Additional information about this program may be requested by e-mailing carpenterfellowship@bmifoundation.org

Centre for Peace and Reconciliation Studies Graduate Scholarship: Coventry University in the UK offers scholarships to successful applicants of their MA in Peace and Reconciliation Studies program who are not from EU countries. These scholarships are restricted to applicants from low and low/middle income economies only. For further details, www.coventry.ac.uk/researchnet/peacetudies/a/866

Chevening Scholarships: Three scholarship schemes for postgraduate study in the United Kingdom for students of non-British citizenry and from selected countries in any field of study. The scholarship is aimed at extremely capable individuals who have already made an impact and are motivated to pursue a career that will take them to a position of leadership within their own country. Deadlines vary per country. http://www.chevening.com

China Times Cultural Foundation Scholarships
There are various scholarships available for graduate study in Chinese studies at the University of Hawaii. http://www.chinesestudies.hawaii.edu/academia/scholarships.html
Commonwealth Scholarship: Eligible for Commonwealth citizens intending to pursue postgraduate study or doctoral study at Commonwealth universities. http://www.csfp-online.org/

Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute (CHCI) Scholarship Awards are provided to Latino students who have a history of performing public service-oriented activities in their communities and plan to continue contributing in the future. There is no GPA or major requirement. Students with excellent leadership potential are encouraged to apply. Recipients will receive $2,500 to attend a four-year or graduate-level academic institution. Students must be enrolled full-time and demonstrate financial need. Consult the website for various deadlines. http://www.chci.org/scholarships/

Critical Language Scholarships: Sponsored by the U.S. State Department, the program offers intensive overseas study in the critical need foreign languages of Arabic, Bengali, Hindi, Punjabi, Turkish, Urdu, Chinese, Korean, Persian, and Russian. Recipients must be U.S. citizen undergraduate, graduate, and recent graduate students. Funding can be for beginning, intermediate, and advanced level summer language programs at American Overseas Research Centers and affiliated partners. Recipients are expected to continue their language study beyond the scholarship period and later apply their critical language skills in their professional careers. Application deadline is usually the last week of January but check the website to be sure: www.clscholarship.org/home.php

Marie Curie Fellowships: These fellowships for overseas research and study at specified foreign universities run for three years and are part of a larger program called ENGLOBE Enlightenment and Global History. The disciplines involved are history, philosophy, literature, cultural studies, or art history. http://cordis.europa.eu/fp7/people/home_en.html
DAAD Undergraduate Scholarships: Highly qualified undergraduate students are invited to apply for scholarships funding study, senior thesis research and/or internships in Germany. Scholarships are available either as part of an organized study abroad program or as part of an individual, student-designed study abroad semester or year. Eligible students are currently second and third year students and will be in their third and fourth year during their stay in Germany; are seeking DAAD support for a 4-10 month period in Germany during the German academic year; possess outstanding academic records and personal integrity, as evinced by both their grades and letters of recommendation; are US or Canadian citizens or permanent residents thereof. Foreign nationals are eligible if they have been full-time students at an accredited US or Canadian university for more than one year at the time of application and will return to the US or Canada after the scholarship period to complete their Bachelor's degree; have well-defined study, research or internship plans for their stay in Germany; submit the DAAD language evaluation form with their application, although German language competency is not mandatory; demonstrate an interest in contemporary German and European affairs and who explain the significance of their project in Germany to their future studies, research or professional goals; and are enrolled, full-time students in an undergraduate degree-granting program at an accredited North American college or university. Scholarships may be granted for a minimum of four and a maximum of 10 months. Recipients will be awarded a monthly stipend of approximately € 650, plus additional funds to help defray travel and research expenses as well as health insurance. http://www.daad.org
DAAD Scholarships for Graduating Seniors: Designed for outstanding bachelor’s degree recipients to study at universities in Germany. Applications are invited from all academic fields. Applicants in the arts, humanities and social sciences should have a good command of German i.e., need to have completed at least two years of college German. Applicants are required to have a well-defined study or research project that makes a stay in Germany essential. There is a monthly stipend plus additional payments to help defray travel and research expenses as well as health insurance. Check deadlines on the webpage. www.daad.org

Davies-Jackson Scholarship: Designed for students from families with modest economic backgrounds and who are among the first in their families to have graduated from college. It is a two-year, full scholarship to St. John’s College, Cambridge University which covers all tuition, fees, room and board during term-time, living expenses during summer vacation, and travel to and from England. Deadline is early November. http://www.cic.edu/caphe/assistance/davies.asp

*Davis-Putter Scholarships: Provide grants to students actively working for peace and justice. These need-based scholarships are awarded to those able to do academic work at the university level and are part of the progressive movement on campus and in the community. Completed applications will include a short personal statement, transcripts, letters of support from two people able to evaluate the applicant’s current political work, an official financial statement (i.e., FAFSA or SAR), and a passport-like photograph suitable for reproduction. Although citizenship is not a consideration, applicants must be living in the United States and planning to enroll in school in the US in order to apply. The maximum grant is $10,000 and may be considerably smaller depending on the applicant’s circumstances and the amount of funding available. Deadline is April 1st of each year. www.davisputter.org
Kathyn Davis’ Fellows for Peace: Investing in the Study of Critical Languages. The fellowships are competitive, merit-based award open to all Middlebury Language School applicants. This fellowship is available to U.S. citizens and international students and professionals. Students are encouraged to apply for regular Middlebury College financial aid (awarded on a demonstrated-need basis), through the office of financial aid. To be considered for the Davis Fellows for Peace, you must have a complete Language School application on file. Note that the Language Schools application includes a non-refundable processing fee of $75. The application for the 2015 Kathryn Davis Fellowship is being reconfigured and will be available soon. The deadline for the Fellowship will be January 15, 2015; please check their website at http://www.middlebury.edu/ls/finaid/fellowships/kwd for the additional information and for the application.

Department of Energy (DOE) Computational Science Graduate Fellowships: The Department of Energy provides support for computational science graduate students. Fellowships provide payment of all tuition and fees; yearly stipend of $32,400; allowance of $1,000 annually for research; and up to $2,475 in matching funds for computer workstation. Program of study must include: computer science, mathematics, and scientific or engineering discipline. There will also be a practicum assignment required at DOE lab. Students must be planning full-time PhD study at a U.S. university and support is limited to four years. Applicants must exceptional senior undergraduates or in their first or second year of graduate study. Deadline is usually mid-January of each year. www.krellinst.org/csgf

Department of Health and Human Services Emerging Leaders Program: A two-year, paid federal internship with HHS; it is a competitive program that provides interns with the opportunity to develop leadership skills in one of the largest federal agencies. The internship carries a salary of up to $50,408. Website: http://www.hhsu.learning.hhs.gov/elp/
* Amelia Earhart Fellowships: Given to Women of any nationality with a superior academic record and a bachelor's degree in science or engineering. Fellowships carry a stipend of $6,000. Deadline: mid November.
   http://www.zonta.org/WhatWeDo/InternationalPrograms/AmeliaEarhartFellowship.aspx

Dwight D. Eisenhower/Conrad N. Hilton Scholarship: For Gettysburg Juniors and Seniors in political science, history, management, economics or other social science or interdisciplinary majors who are applying to study abroad. Students should have a 3.0 GPA. Scholarships are merit-based. If interested in applying, applications can be obtained in the Center for Global Education, CUB 290 during each Fall semester.

Environmental Research and Education Foundation
Recognizes excellence in environmental research and education. Must demonstrate clear interest in solid waste management research. Doctoral and post-doctoral scholarships are awarded up to $12,000 per year, and can be extended for up to 3 years from the initial award date. Master’s scholarships are awarded up to $5,000 per year and can be extended for up to 2 years from the initial award date. Deadline: early June.

Ford Foundation International Fellowship: Support for up to three years of formal graduate study. Fellows will be selected from countries in Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Latin America, and Russia. US nationals are not eligible, although Fellows may study in the United States. Fellows are chosen on the basis of their leadership potential and commitment to community or national service, as well as for academic excellence. IFP will also support short-term language study and training in research and computer skills prior to graduate enrollment. All applications must be submitted to IFP office in the country or region where the applicant resides and deadlines vary by country. Website: http://www.fordifp.net

Ford Foundation Diversity Fellowships: Awards are made to those individuals who have demonstrated superlative scholarship and show the greatest promise for future achievement as scholars, researchers, and teachers in institutions of higher education. Awards will be made for study in research-based PhD or ScD programs in selected disciplines. The annual stipend is $20,000 for three years to be used within a five-year period. Deadline is usually early November. Certain disciplines other than science and math are eligible. See website for complete listing: http://national-academies.org/fellowships

French Government English Teaching Assistantships: The Teaching Assistant Program in France (TAPIF) is a joint initiative of the French Ministry of Education, the Centre international d'études pédagogiques (CIEP) and the Cultural Services of the French Embassy. The program's goal is to strengthen English-language instruction in French schools by establishing a native speaker presence, while also providing American Francophiles with excellent teaching experience and first-hand knowledge of French language and culture. The deadline to apply is 1/15/15. http://highereducation.frencheducation.org/teach-in-france/prospective-applicants/applying
Fulbright Grants: Graduating seniors and recent graduates are eligible. Scholarship provides roundtrip transportation; language courses for certain countries and orientation; tuition; book and research allowances; maintenance for the academic year; and supplemental health insurance. Grantees plan their own programs that may include university coursework, independent research, special projects, etc. There are also English Teaching Assistantships available for some countries. Our institutional deadline is September 1, 2014.
http://www.fulbrightonline.org

Fulbright Commission Summer Institutes for US Undergraduates: The US-UK Fulbright Commission offers special summer institutes for US citizens to come to the UK. These summer programs provide the opportunity for US undergrads, with at least two years of undergraduate study left to complete, to come to the UK on a three to six-week academic and cultural summer program. The institutes will cover the majority of participant costs. This includes round-trip airfare from the US to UK, tuition and fees at the host university accommodation and meals and, in some cases, a small daily allowance. Universities and disciplinary topics vary each year with a late February/early March deadline. Website: www.fulbright.org.uk/fulbright-awards/exchanges-to-the-uk/undergraduates

Gates Cambridge Scholarships: Designed for scholars of outstanding academic merit and leadership who are committed to serving their communities, and who gain admission to the University of Cambridge to pursue courses of study as follows: second bachelor’s degree as an affiliated student; one-year postgraduate course; research leading to the degree of PhD. Check website for specific information and both university application and scholarship application deadlines.
http://www.gates.scholarships.cam.ac.uk/

18
German Chancellor Scholarships: U.S. citizens under the age of 34 from any field of study who show outstanding potential for future leadership are eligible. The program provides for one year in Germany for professional development, study, or research. Applicants design individual projects tailored to their professional development and goals and decide at which institutions to pursue them and may also arrange internships, junior staff positions, or training or performance programs. Applicants are expected to have established contact with a mentor in Germany who agrees to provide professional and/or scholarly assistance throughout the program year. The scholarship consists of a monthly allowance to cover housing and living expenses. Proficiency in German is not required at the time of application. Annual application deadline is 10/31. www.humboldt-foundation.de/en/programme/stip_aus/buka.htm

Gilder Lehrman History Scholar Award: Recognizes outstanding graduating college seniors who have demonstrated academic and extracurricular excellence in American history or American studies as well as a commitment to public service and community involvement. Fifteen top American history college seniors will be selected as Gilder Lehrman History Scholar Award winners who will spend a weekend in New York City, June 3–7, 2015; Participate in a program of special presentations, including meetings with eminent scholars; Experience exclusive behind-the-scenes tours of historic archives; and receive the Gilder Lehrman History Scholar Award at a celebratory dinner. Applications open on October 15, 2014. For more information, email scholars@gilderlehrman.org.
Benjamin Gilman International Scholarship Program: A competition for awards for study abroad, for US citizens who are receiving federal PELL Grant funding at a college or university. Award amounts are up to $5,000 for a semester or academic year. Requires Institutional approval so our deadline is a month before theirs.
http://www.iie.org/en/Programs/Gilman-Scholarship-Program
www.iie.org/gilman

Glamour Magazine’s Top Ten College Women Competition: Open to any woman who is currently a full-time junior at an accredited college or university in the U.S. or Canada. Evaluations will be done on the basis of leadership experience, personal involvement in community and campus affairs, and academic excellence. Application must be rec’d by the end of November. Winners will receive a $3,000 award, a trip to NYC, and national recognition in an issue of the magazine. Deadline is early December each year. Go to http://www.glamour.com/about/top-10-college-women

Barry Goldwater Scholarship: Sophomores and juniors interested in careers in math, the natural sciences, and engineering are eligible to apply for this highly competitive scholarship that awards up to $7,500 per year. Students must have a B average, stand in the upper fourth of their class, be a US citizen, and be enrolled as a full-time student in one of the disciplines mentioned. Students must receive an institutional nomination and there is a cap of 4 nominees per institution. Institutional deadline is November 21, 2014. http://www.act.org/goldwater

Earl G. Graves Scholarship: Sponsored by the United Negro College Fund, the applicant must be a full-time junior or senior Business major, in good academic standing, and be in the top 20% of his/her class. Award is $5,000. Application deadline is usually the end of March. www.uncf.org
Peggy Guggenheim Studentships: The program involves the operation of the museum during opening hours including the preparation of the galleries before opening, guarding the rooms, answering questions from the public, selling tickets and catalogues, closing the museum at the end of the day, and assisting in administrative matters as well as periodic exhibition installation. Seminars are held to discuss aspects of museology and modern art in the Peggy Guggenheim Collection. Students have the opportunity to carry out independent research. Non-Italian undergraduate or graduate students who are majoring in art, art history or related areas are eligible. Fluency in English and spoken Italian are pre-requisites. Minimum one month, maximum three months. There is a small stipend available as a contribution toward living expenses. Application forms can be downloaded from the website and must be submitted either in English or Italian. For those applying for the months of January-April, application is usually due mid-October. For those applying for the months of May-December, application deadline is usually early December. www.guggenheim-venice.it/inglese/education/

Hearst Minority Fellowship: To engage more minorities in the study of philanthropy through one of the graduate degrees offered by the Center on Philanthropy at Indiana University. A 10-month appointment, the Hearst Fellows must study on a full-time basis and pursue one of several academic programs affiliated with the Center: M.A. in Philanthropic Studies or one of the Dual Degrees: M.A. in Philanthropic Studies and Economics, M.A. in Philanthropic Studies and History, M.A. in Philanthropic Studies and M.S. in Nursing-Nursing Administration, M.A. in Philanthropic Studies and M.P.A. in Nonprofit Management. The M.A. focuses on the history, culture and values of philanthropy. The dual degrees allow students to earn two master's degrees in a reduced amount of time. Hearst Fellows receive a stipend of $9,000 for the year to cover housing and living expenses and tuition is waived. Applicants are evaluated academic performance, GRE scores, and letters of recommendation as well as on leadership potential. http://www.philanthropy.iupui.edu/education/hearst.aspx
Hertz Foundation Graduate Fellowships: Supports the Ph.D. education of the young people who can be expected to have the greatest impact on the application of the physical sciences to human problems during the next half-century. Seniors who evidence exceptional creativity, broad understanding of physical principles, and outstanding potential for innovative research are encouraged to apply. The fellowship is $31,000+ annually and the student must be accepted at one of the Foundation’s approved schools. Website: http://www.hertzfoundation.org/dx/fellowships/application.aspx

Ernest F. Hollings Undergraduate Scholarships: Designed to: increase undergraduate training in oceanic and atmospheric science, research, technology, and education, foster multidisciplinary training opportunities, recruit and prepare students for public service careers with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and other natural resource and science agencies, and recruit and prepare students for careers as teachers and educators in oceanic and atmospheric science. Applicants must be studying biological, life, and agricultural sciences; physical sciences; mathematics; engineering; computer and information sciences; social and behavioral science; and teacher education are encouraged to apply. Benefits are up to $8,000 of academic assistance per school year for full-time study during the junior and senior years; a required, 10-week, paid ($650/week) internship during the summer between the junior and senior years at NOAA or a NOAA approved facility; a housing subsidy during the internship and limited reimbursement for round-trip travel to the internship site for scholars who do not reside at home during the summer internship; and travel expenses to the Hollings scholarship program conference at the completion of the internship. Deadline line is usually mid to late May every year. http://www.oesd.noaa.gov/Hollings_info.html

* Allen Lee Hughes Fellowship: Individuals interested in artistic and technical production, arts administration and community engagement. Fellowship provides a modest stipend and is intended to increase participation of people of color in the arts. http://www.arenastage.org/education/education-programs/internships-fellowships/
Institute for Humane Studies Graduate Fellowships:
Offers Fellowships of up to $15,000 in tuition and stipends to currently enrolled graduate students currently pursuing an MFA degree in film, fiction writing, and/or playwriting. Deadline is usually late December. www.theihs.org

Institute for International Public Policy Fellowships:
Enhances US national security and global competitiveness by preparing a cadre of well-trained, language proficient minority young people to compete in the global marketplace through a sequenced six-component program, which includes: Sophomore Summer Policy Institute, Junior Year Study Abroad, Junior Summer Policy Institute, Summer Language Institute, Internships, and a Graduate Degree in International Affairs—provides up to $15,000 in matching funds to Fellows attending an APSIA master’s program in International Affairs. Eligibility requirements from undergraduate sophomores include the following: Enrolled full-time at an accredited four–year baccalaureate-granting institution; Are U.S. Citizens or legal residents (documentary support required); Have a minimum 3.2 grade point average (on a 4.0 scale); Possess excellent critical analysis and leadership skills; Have a strong demonstrated interest in international affairs, public policy and language training; Are an underrepresented minority (African American, Hispanic, Asian American, American Indian, Alaskan Native, Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander); and Plan to seek admission to a two-year master’s degree program in international affairs. For application deadline and requirements, including a letter from the Provost, please see www.ppiaprogram.org/about/

International Research and Education in Engineering Program (IREE): Sends approximately 20 undergraduate engineering students to China each year. The goals of the program are to support international travel by US early-career researchers to enable them to gain international research experience and perspective. http://globalhub.org/iree
Japan-IMF Scholarship Program for Advanced Studies:
A two-year program intended to help Japanese nationals obtaining Ph.D. degrees in macroeconomics and preparing them to work as economists at the International Monetary Fund (IMF). JISP covers all reasonable expenses for two years of graduate study. Deadline: late January.

Japan Inter-American Development Bank Scholarship Program:
For students from the Bank’s borrowing member countries who wish to pursue Master's degree in development-related fields, such as social sciences, business, public administration or other related disciplines. Scholarship recipients may attend accredited institutions offering Master's programs, located in any of the member countries. The scholarship provides benefits covering full tuition, university medical and accident insurance, an installation allowance, a monthly subsistence allowance, a book allowance, and economy class travel. Deadline variable per region.

Japanese Government (Monbukagakusho) Scholarship for Japanese Studies:
Scholarships to study in Japan for foreign students interested in further study of the Japanese language, affairs, and culture. Sponsored by the government’s Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science, and Technology. Website:

Joint Japan/World Bank Graduate Scholarship:
For individuals from World Bank member countries to undertake graduate studies at any university located in a World Bank member country except their own. Fields of study: economics, public administration, finance, planning, health, population, agriculture, infrastructure, information systems and aquatic resources (provided that the focus of study is on public policy aspects of these fields), environment and natural resource management, education, and other development-related subjects. Deadline: early May.
Walter J. Jensen Fellowship for French Language, Literature, and Culture: Awarded for at least six months of study in France. The purpose is to help educators and researchers improve education in standard French language, literature and culture and in the study of standard French in the United States. The fellowship has a stipend of at least $10,000. Phi Beta Kappa will also cover a single round-trip, economy-class ticket for the recipient to travel to France. Candidates must be U.S. citizens under the age of 40 who can demonstrate their career does or will involve active use of the French language. They must have earned a bachelor’s degree from an accredited four-year institution with a 3.0 minimum GPA in French language and literature as a major. They must demonstrate superior competence in French, according to the standards established by the American Association of Teachers of French. Preference may be given to members of Phi Beta Kappa and educators at the secondary school level or higher. www.pbk.org

Agnes Jones Jackson Scholarship: Applicant must be a current member of the NAACP, a US citizen, and a full-time undergraduate or graduate student. Undergrads must have a 2.5 gap and grads a 3.0. Undergrads receive $1,500 awards and graduate students receive $2,500. www.naacp.org/youth/scholarships/information/

Josephine de Karman Fellowship: This is a one-time award of $16,000 for students of any discipline entering senior undergraduate year in fall 2010. Applicants should have manifested exceptional ability and serious purpose. Special consideration will be given to applicants in the Humanities. Open to foreign students as well as US citizens. Deadline is 1/31/12. www.dekarman.org
Charles & Lucille King Family Foundation: Provides scholarships to outstanding undergraduate students in television and film production. Scholarships are given to junior- and senior-level students who demonstrate academic ability, financial need, and professional potential. Maximum of $3,500 is available for each year. Deadline is mid-March. http://www.kingfoundation.org/

*King Faisal Foundation Scholarship: Funding opportunity up to three years for Muslim students in Medicine, Engineering, and sciences (Physics, Chemistry, and Geology). For study at an accredited European or North American university. Deadline: late May. http://www.advance-africa.com/King-Faisal-Foundation-Scholarships.html

*Kate Neal Kinley Memorial Fellowship: Annual fellowship ($7,500; $15,000; or an alternate award of $1,000) for advanced study of Fine Arts to enhance professional standing or to finance a special project. Preference for candidates under 25 years. Deadline: early December. http://faa.illinois.edu/Administration

Knowles Math & Science Teaching Fellowships: Five-year teaching program for those interested in math or the sciences which provides stipends, funding for professional development, grants for teaching materials, and leadership and mentoring opportunities. Deadline: 10/29/14 http://kstf.org/

Kroc Fellowships: Identifies and develops a new generation of public radio journalists. Fellows get hands-on training in every aspect of radio journalism, including writing, reporting, producing, and editing at NPR. Provides a $40,000 stipend and benefits, including paid vacation, for the year. Applications are accepted all year long. Website: www.npr.org/about-npr/183691179/kroc-fellowship-details-and-application
John Lennon Scholarships: Open to college students between the ages of 15 and 24. Three scholarship awards are available, one of $10,000 and two of $5,000. Submissions must be postmarked by the end of January. See http://www.bmifoundation.org/program/john_lennon_scholarships for details. You will need to contact Professor Russ McCutcheon, in order to be able to submit.

*Lindbergh Grants: Provides grants of up to $10,580 to students whose individual initiative and work in a wide spectrum of disciplines furthers the Lindbergh’s vision of a balance between the advance of technology and the preservation of the natural/human environment. Deadline: Early June. http://www.lindberghfoundation.org/docs/index.php/our-grants

James Madison Junior Fellowships: Awarded to students who are about to complete, or have recently completed, their undergraduate work and plan to begin full-time master’s degree study at any accredited institution of higher education in the U.S. Master’s degree must be in one of the following areas: MA in American history or political science; MAT, concentrating in either American Constitutional history or American government; or M.Ed., with a concentration in American history or government. The maximum award amount is up to $24,000 over two years. March 1st is the deadline. Website: http://www.jamesmadison.com

* Margaret McNamara Memorial Fund Grants Awards five to six grants to women from developing countries about $11,000 each year to help further their education and strengthen their leadership skills to improve the lives of women and children in the developing world. http://www.mmmf-grants.org/
Mellon Fellowship in Conservation at the Huntington Library: The internship, offered in the conservation of either books or works on paper, is for individuals who have a Bachelor’s degree and can demonstrate a commitment to entering a graduate program in conservation. The intern will work with the Preservation Department’s Conservators, who will make use of The Huntington’s collections materials in providing instruction. Through training in conservation treatment techniques and readings from the conservation literature, the intern will advance their knowledge of the underlying principles of conservation, and the tools and techniques used in the conservation of library/museum collections materials. The term of the internship is three months. The stipend is $5,000.
http://www.huntington.org/WebAssets/Templates/content.aspx?id=2976

Microsoft Scholarships: Awarded for one academic year and will cover tuition as posted by the financial aid office of the institution. All recipients will be required to complete a salaried summer internship at Microsoft Corp. in Redmond, WA. Students must be making satisfactory academic progress (3.0) and majoring in computer science/engineering or a related discipline like math or physics, with a demonstrated interest in computer science. Deadline is usually the end of January.

Glenn Miller Scholarship: Offers four scholarships to instrumentalists and to vocalists. Scholarships are awarded to first-year college students who intend to make music a central part of their future life. Applicants submit an audition CD or tape and application. Scholars will perform at the Glenn Miller Music Festival in June. For more information, visit the website: www.glennmiller.org/scholarships.html

National Association of Hispanic Journalists (NAHJ) Scholarships: A variety of scholarships are available for Latino students who are interested in pursuing careers in broadcast and print journalism. Deadline is March 31st.
http://www.nahj.org/2009/01/scholarshipseligibility
National Association of Hispanic Nurses (NAHN): Approximately six different types of scholarships for Hispanic students who are entering or enrolled in an accredited school of nursing. Deadline is early June. Check webpage for information. www.thehispanicnurses.org/scholarship/

NCAA Sports Journalism Scholarships: Eight $3,000 scholarships will be awarded to applicants in their junior year to assist them in their senior year of study. This program is specifically designed to foster freedoms of speech and press while promoting quality sports journalism education at the collegiate level. Application deadline is usually the beginning of December. For more information https://www.ncaa.org/wps/wcm/connect/ncaa/ncaa/academics+and+athletes/leadership/leadership+advisory+board/programs.html

NCAA Postgraduate Scholarships: Promotes and encourages postgraduate education by rewarding the Association’s most accomplished student-athletes through their participation in NCAA championship and/or emerging sports. Athletics, academic achievements, campus involvement, community service, volunteer activities and demonstrated leadership, are evaluated. The one-time grants of $7,500 each are awarded for fall sports, winter sports and spring sports. Each sports season (fall, winter and spring), there are 29 scholarships available for men and 29 scholarships available for women. The scholarships are one-time, non-renewable grants. Students must be nominated by the college so please contact your Coach and the Assistant Provost for institutional process. Deadlines vary. www.ncaa.org/
NCAA Ethnic Minority and Women's Enhancement Postgraduate Scholarship: Awards scholarships to ethnic minorities and female college graduates who will be entering their initial year of postgraduate studies. The applicant must be seeking admission or have been accepted into a graduate program that will help the applicant obtain a career in intercollegiate athletics. Applicants must be U.S. citizens and have performed with distinction at their undergraduate institution. Involvement in extracurricular activities, coursework, commitment to pursuing a career in intercollegiate athletics and promise for success in such a career will be considered. http://www1.ncaa.org/membership/ed_outreach/prof_development/minority-womens_scholarships.html

National Institute of Health (NIH) Undergraduate Scholarship Program: Offers competitive scholarships to students from disadvantaged backgrounds who are committed to careers in biomedical, behavioral, and social science health-related research. The benefits include both scholarship support and research training at NIH. http://ugsp.nih.gov/overview_faqs.asp?m=01&s=01

NIH Oxford/Cambridge Medical Research Scholarships: Allows American students to pursue collaborative biomedical research projects between a laboratory at NIH and either Oxford or Cambridge University leading to a Ph.D. from that university. The Oxford/Cambridge program allows students to complete a Ph.D. in any area of biomedical research in three or four years. Roughly half of their thesis work is done on the NIH campus in Bethesda Maryland and the other half is done at Oxford or Cambridge. Students are fully funded for their tuition, college fees, health insurance, and stipend. They also receive a laptop computer and a generous travel allowance. Financial support has just been approved for students desiring to complete combined M.D./Ph.D. degrees through the program. http://oxcam.gpp.nih.gov/currentStudents/newClassResources.asp#
National Press Photographers Foundation Scholarships: List of scholarship opportunities for both graduate and undergraduate photographers. Submission deadline for all scholarships early March. http://nppf.org/

National Science Foundation (NSF) Graduate Research Fellowships: Awarded to graduate students in the beginning stages of study in the fields of mathematics, science, or engineering. The award of $30,000 is for twelve-months plus additional monies for cost of education ($10,500) and international travel ($1,000). Information will be available on the website each August. http://www.nsfqfp.org/about_the_program

National Sculpture Society, Inc. Scholarships: Scholarships of $1,000 each are available for students of figurative or representational sculpture. Scholarships are paid directly to the academic institution through which the student applies. The submission deadline is early June. http://www.nationalsculpture.org/nssN/index.cfm/fa/cProg.scholarships

National Security Education Program (NSEP) Boren Graduate Fellowships: Applicants design their own programs and may combine domestic language and cultural study with overseas study. All fellowships must include study of a modern language other than English and the study of an area and culture. Deadline is usually the end of January each year. The maximum award for overseas study is $12,000 per semester for up to two semesters. A maximum of $12,000 is available for a program of domestic study only. The maximum level of support for a combined overseas and domestic program is $30,000. http://nsep.aed.org/facts.html
National Security Education Program (NSEP) Boren Undergraduate Scholarships: Designed to provide American student with the resources they need to acquire skills and experience in countries critical to the future security of our nation. The field of study overseas is limited to certain academic fields; you must study a less commonly taught language; the length of support ranges from one academic to two successive semesters; and all are required to seek employment with a federal agency or office involved in national security affairs upon graduation. Length of this service requirement is equal to length of scholarship support. Institutional deadline will be one full month before their deadline since a nomination is required.
http://www.borenawards.org/boren_scholarship

National Urban League Scholarships: The NLU scholarship program offers scholarships to deserving students. For a list of and links to their various opportunities, go to www.nul.org/.

New York State Regents Health Care Opportunity Scholarships: Awarded annually to students studying medicine or dentistry. Awards are $10,000 a year, for up to 4 years. Students must: Study full time and be matriculated in approved programs of study in a New York State medical or dental school. Be New York State residents. Be U.S. citizens or qualifying non-citizens. Upon completion of study, students must work 1 year for each annual payment received. However, the minimum service requirement is 2 years, even if only 1 annual payment was received. Employment must be in the studied profession and must be in a designated physician-shortage area of New York State. Apply by requesting an application and further information from: NYS Education Department, Office of K-16 Initiatives and Access Programs, Scholarships and Grants Administration Unit, Room 1078 Education Building Addition, Albany, NY 12234. Information on this and other State and federal student financial aid programs (loans, grants, and scholarships) for full-time, part-time, graduate, and undergraduate study.
New York Women in Communications Inc. (NYWICI) Scholarship Program: Based on academic excellence, need and involvement in a field of communications. Scholarships are worth $2500, $5000, or $10,000 and may be renewed up to four years. Only students attending schools in NY, NJ, CT, or PA and must be undergrad/graduate students majoring in advertising, broadcasting, communications, English, film, journalism, digital media, marketing, PR, etc. GPA must be 3.2 or better. http://www.nywici.org/foundation/scholarships.html

Lionel Newman Conducting Scholarship: Gives young conductors the opportunity to work for a three-year period with the Los Angeles Young Musicians Foundation Debut Orchestra. This includes not only the opportunity to work with well-known conductors but to conduct works independently. For additional information, please visit the Young Musicians Foundation website. http://www.bmifoundation.org/program/lionel_newman_conducting_scholarship

Oak Ridge Institute for Science and Education (ORISE): Multiple fellowship and scholarship opportunities for both undergraduate and graduate students in the sciences. Deadlines vary. Website: http://www.orau.gov/orise/educ.htm

*Organization of American States (OAS) Graduate Scholarships Program: Scholarships are awarded for advanced study at the graduate level and research. Candidates must know the language of the study country. College graduates from various backgrounds and majors are eligible for the fellowships, which are granted for periods over 1 academic year, but not more than two years. Candidates choose the university, study center or research site and make the necessary contacts to secure an acceptance, or evidence that the facilities needed to complete a research project will be provided. The scholarship provides for the following benefits: round trip travel, tuition fees, study materials, health insurance and subsistence allowance. www.educoas.org/portal/en/oasbecas/types.aspx
Overseas Research Students Award Scheme: Set up by the Secretary of State for Education and Science in 1979 to attract high-quality international students to the United Kingdom to undertake research. Provides funding to pay the difference between international student fees and home EU fees for international students at UK institutions. Deadlines variable. http://www.orsas.ac.uk/

Open Society Institute (OSI) Individual Fellowships and Scholarships: Provides support for fellowships, scholarships, and related activities that empower individuals throughout the world to improve the social, political, and intellectual environments of their home communities. Many scholarships and fellowships available. Deadlines variable. http://www.soros.org/grants

Open Society Institute (OSI) Global Supplementary Grants: Grants to students from select countries of Eastern and Central Europe, the former Soviet Union, and Mongolia. Purpose is to enable qualified students to pursue doctoral studies in the humanities and social sciences at accredited universities in Asia, Australia, Europe, the Middle/Near East, and North America. Deadline: early April. http://www.soros.org/initiatives/scholarship/focus_areas/global_supplementary/guidelines

Oxfam America CHANGE Initiative Fellowship: Opportunity for 50 rising sophomores and juniors who are dedicated to finding long-term solutions to poverty, hunger, and social injustice around the world. The students must have an interest in issues such as Fair Trade Coffee, global hunger and international trace, and be willing to work on their campuses and in their communities to create campaigns and educational opportunities. Students are required to participate in a training program in Boston during the summer. Oxfam covers all costs for travel and the training. Applications are due April 1st annually. http://www.oxfamamerica.org/change
P.E.O. International Peace Scholarship: Scholarships are awarded annually to women who are citizens of countries other than the United States or Canada for graduate study in a degree from schools in the United States and Canada. The maximum amount for a full 12 months of study is $8,000. An applicant must be qualified for admission to full-time graduate study, working toward a graduate degree in the college or university she will attend. In order to qualify for her first scholarship, an applicant must have a full year of coursework remaining and be enrolled and on campus for the entire school year. Deadline is usually the end of January. http://www.peointernational.org/peo-projectsphilanthropies

Thomas R. Pickering Foreign Affairs Fellowship: Up to $50,000 annually towards tuition, room, board, and mandatory fees during the senior year and during the first year of graduate study with reimbursement for books and one round-trip travel. Fellows must agree to pursue a graduate degree in International Affairs at one of the identified graduate schools and also participate in a summer institute the summer between their junior and senior years. Deadline is usually in January. http://www.woodrow.org/fellowships/foreign_affairs/pickering_undergrad/index.php

Thomas R. Pickering Graduate Foreign Affairs Fellowship: For graduating seniors with a GPA of 3.2 or higher and who will enroll in master's degree programs such as public policy, international affairs, public administration, business, economics, political science, sociology, or foreign languages and have a strong interest in becoming Foreign Service Officers in the US State Department. Fellowship is for full tuition and fees, living stipend, books, one round-trip travel for the first and second years of graduate school, paid State Department summer internships in Washington and overseas. Deadline is usually in late January but check website-- http://www.woodrow.org/fellowships/foreign_affairs/pickering_grad/index.php
Playwrights' Center Jerome Fellowships: Playwrights’ Center Jerome Fellowships are awarded annually, providing emerging American playwrights with funds and services to aid them in the development of their craft. Fellows spend a year’s residency in Minnesota receiving Center opportunities including readings and workshops with professional directors, dramaturges, and actors. Applications are screened for eligibility by The Playwrights’ Center and evaluated by a select panel of Minnesota theater artists. Those recommended for finalist status are evaluated by a diverse panel of national theater artists. Selection is based on artistic excellence, potential, and commitment. Housing and travel are not provided. www.pwcenter.org/fellowships_Jerome.php

Reynolds Foundation Fellowships in Social Entrepreneurship: Enable 25 individuals with a track record of social entrepreneurship to pursue masters’ degrees at Harvard’s Graduate School of Education, the School of Public Health, or the Kennedy School of Government. Those chosen will receive full tuition plus health insurance and a stipend of $21,200. Please check website for various graduate program deadlines; fellowship’s application deadline is usually mid-January. http://www.reynolds.harvard.edu/

Rhodes Scholarships for US Citizens: Tenable at Oxford University for two years for study leading to an advanced degree. All educational costs are paid on the Scholar's behalf, and Scholar receives a maintenance allowance adequate to meet necessary expenses for term-time and vacations. Rhodes Scholars are chosen from among applicants who combine intellectual, physical, and ethical excellence. Applicants must receive endorsement from the College. Institutional deadline is September 1st each year. http://www.rhodesscholar.org/
Rhodes Scholarships for Non-U.S. Citizens
1-3 years of study at Oxford University for citizens of Australia, Bangladesh, Bermuda, Canada, Commonwealth Caribbean and Jamaica, Germany, Hong Kong, India Kenya, Malaysia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Singapore, South Africa, Uganda, Zambia, and Zimbabwe. Deadline: Early October.
http://www.rhodestrust.org/

The Roothbert Fund Scholarship Program: Awards ranging from $2,000-$3,000 are offered to students in the U.S. in need of financial aid to further their education at the undergraduate or graduate level. The Fund seeks candidates who are "motivated by spiritual values," and works to foster fellowship among them. Deadline: late January.
http://www.roothbertfund.org/scholarships.php

Rotary World Peace Scholarship: Candidates must have a BA at the time of application with the training, work experience (3 yrs. min.), and academic background in a relevant field; proficiency in more than one language; excellent leadership skills; and a demonstrated commitment to peace and international understanding through professional and academic achievements and/or personal and community service activities. Applications are available on www.rotary.org

Seaspace Scholarships: Supports marine-related courses of study for undergraduate students entering their junior or senior years and graduate students with an overall GPA of at least 3.3/4.0 and demonstrating financial need. Deadline: early March. http://www.seaspace.org/schship.htm
St. Andrew’s Society of Philadelphia Scholarship: The purpose is to foster cultural exchange and the development of each individual student through his or her year at one of the four ancient universities of Scotland. Each of the five successful applicants is awarded $22,000, intended to cover a significant portion of the tuition, room, and board for the year of study. Deadline is March 19, 2015. Please contact Dean Forrestal in the Provost Office for further details.

St. Andrew’s Society State of New York Scholarship: Awarded for one year of graduate study in Scotland. Institutions are allowed to nominate one senior. The basis for selection shall include the student’s academic achievement, extracurricular activities, some Scottish descent, and proof of US citizenship. Candidates must reside or attend a school within 250 miles of New York State. The scholarship funds a total of $15,000 to be used against tuition, then board, then transportation. http://www.standrewsociety.org/scholar.htm

Scotland’s Saltire Scholarship: Open to permanent residents of India, China, Singapore, and, most recently, the U.S. A total of 25 postgraduate awards are available for full time post graduate study at any of Scotland’s universities or higher education institutions. Courses must be 12-month taught master’s programmes, and priority will be given to subjects in the creative industries, science and technology, and financial services. A list of acceptable majors is located on the website. The award covers tuition, fees, return economy airfare, and a generous living allowance. http://www.britishcouncil.org/scotland-learning-about-scotland-saltire-scholarships.htm
Madison & Lila Self Graduate Fellowship: Available at U. of Kansas for individuals who intend to pursue a doctorate in physical sciences, mathematics, engineering, business, economics, or biological or pharmaceutical sciences. The highly selective four-year fellowship offers a generous annual stipend, covers full tuition and fees, and provides a unique professional development program. The total value of the fellowship exceeds $135,000. For more information, go to the UKansas website at www.ku.edu/~selfpro.

M.A. Cartland Shackford Medical Fellowship: Wellesley College offers this fellowships to non-Wellesley alumnae for the study of medicine with a view towards general practice, not psychiatry. Awards are based on merit and need. Deadline is early January each year. Only women are eligible. http://www.Wellesley.edu/CWS/students/wellfs.html

William E. Simon Early Leaders Award: The Simon Graduate School of Business, University of Rochester, is offering special scholarships to recent college graduates interested in studying in a full-time MA or MS program who are nominated by administrators or faculty at selected undergraduate institutions who are accepted at the Simon School. The award nomination deadline is March 15th. http://www.simon.rochester.edu/programs/early-leaders-initiative/early-leaders-awards-program/index.aspx

Sixth Century Studentships: The University of Aberdeen is offering 50 scholarships of 15,000 pounds per annum for three years to pursue a Ph.D. in any of the disciplines offered at this Scottish institution. This amount would cover tuition and fees at the EU rate as well as living expenses. For those who do not yet have the equivalent of a master’s degree, you would be asked to register initially for that degree first (12 months, full-time) and then go on for the doctorate. For further information, see their website. http://www.abdn.ac.uk.studentships/
SMART Scholarship for Service Program: Available to both undergraduates and graduate students pursuing majors in the STEM fields. The program is designed to help prepare a talented pool of civilian scientists and engineers to work at DoD labs. SMART scholarship recipients receive immediate post-graduation job placement with DoD. http://smart.asae.org

Paul & Daisy Soros Fellowships for New Americans: The fellows receive a maintenance grant of $25,000 and a tuition grant of one-half the tuition cost of the US graduate program attended by the Fellow. A Fellow may pursue a graduate degree in any professional field or scholarly discipline in the humanities, social sciences, and sciences. The Fine and Performing Arts are included. Must be a resident alien or have been naturalized as a U.S. citizen or the child of two parents who are both naturalized citizens. Deadline date is in early November. http://www.pdsoros.org/

Student Academy Awards: Awards and cash grants offered for student films judged in four categories: Animation, Documentary, Narrative and Alternative. An outstanding student filmmaker from outside the U.S. is honored each year. Deadlines: early April (domestic application), late March (foreign application) http://www.oscars.org/saa/

Studio Art Centers International (SACI) Florence Program Scholarships: This IIE-sponsored institute offers numerous certificate and degree (M.A. or M.F.A.) programs for art students, both grad and undergrad, to study a wide variety of studio art and art history fields e.g., architecture, conservation, drawing, painting, photography, graphic design, etc. They also offer a few scholarships to their students. http://www.saci-florence.org/pagebase2.asp?s=49&id_001=87
Taylor/Blakeslee University Fellowships: The Council for Advancement of Science Writers awards fellowships to students enrolled in U.S. graduate-level science writing programs to help defray the cost of tuition. The fellowship honors the memory of Rennie Taylor, a science writer for Associated Press, whose estate provided funds for the establishment of the American Tentative Society, and Alton Blakeslee, former science editor of AP, who served as ATS’s longtime president. Awards of $2,000 are available to fellows selected on the basis of a national competition. Website: http://nasw.org/users/casw/fellowsh.htm

Sir John Templeton Fellowship: Awarded to outstanding college students through a competitive essay contest on the meaning and significance of economic and personal liberty. Student Prizes range from $1,000-2,500. Deadline: early May. http://www.independent.org/students/essay

Harry S. Truman Scholarship: Merit-based grant of $30,000 awarded to undergraduates who plans to attend graduate or professional school in order to prepare themselves for a career in government or with the non-profit sector for public service. Institutional deadline date is November 21, 2014. Highly competitive. http://www.truman.gov/

Morris K. Udall Scholarship: Sophomores and juniors who have outstanding potential and who study the environment and related fields may be eligible to receive up to $5,000. It is expected that the candidate's plan of study will include coursework in ethics and public policy and/or community service in the area of the candidate's career field. Since this scholarship requires institutional nomination, our internal deadline is February 2, 2015. http://www.udall.gov/
United States Department of Homeland Security
Undergraduate Scholarships: For students who, upon graduation, are interested in working in a field/agency directly concerned with homeland security. Includes a monthly stipend during the academic year and a stipend for the summer internship. Full tuition and mandatory, nonrefundable fees are also paid. Must be a U.S. citizen in the second year of full-time college attendance, majoring in the physical, mathematical, computer and information, life, or social sciences, psychology, selected humanities, or engineering, with a cumulative GPA of 3.3 or higher on a 4.0 scale. Appointments are for two years. Application due early January. [http://www.orau.gov/dhsed]

University of Cambridge Health Sciences Research Scholars Program: In conjunction with NIH, this is an interdisciplinary program designed to train outstanding students in various areas of biomedical research leading to a Ph.D. awarded by Cambridge in the U.K. Students receive an annual stipend and health benefits at Cambridge and the NIH. Applicants must be U.S. citizens with a Bachelor’s degree and must have undergraduate preparation in biology, chemistry, physics, and mathematics. Previous laboratory research experience is a strong qualification for the program. Application deadline is usually in early January. Website: [http://www.gpp.nih.gov/admissions/index.html].

*Elie Wiesel Prize in Ethics: An essay contest focusing on particular questions related to Ethics. Prizes range from $5,000 to $500 per award. Open to full-time juniors and seniors. All application materials available on their website [http://www.eliewieselfoundation.org/]

Hubertus W.V. Willems Scholarship for Male Students: Applicant must be a male majoring in Engineering, Chemistry, Physics, or Mathematics. Must be a U.S. citizen and a full-time undergraduate student and possess a GPA of 2.5 minimum. Awards are for up to $3,000. [www.poisefoundation.org]
Worldstudio AIGA Scholarships: Provide funding to minority and economically disadvantaged students who are studying the design/arts disciplines (including film) in colleges in the U.S. The scholarship’s primary aims are to increase diversity in the creative professions and to foster social and environmental responsibility in the artists, designers and studios of tomorrow. Recipients are not only selected for their ability and need but also for their demonstrated commitment to giving back to the larger community through their work. http://www.aiga.org/worldstudio-scholarship/

Xerox Technical Minority Scholarships: Scholarships are available in the amount of between $1,000 and $10,000. Applicants must have a 3.0 or better gpa and be U.S. citizens or visa-holding Permanent Residents of African American, Asian, Pacific Island, Native American, Native Alaskan, or Hispanic descent. They must be enrolled as a full-time undergraduate or graduate student in any of the following technical fields: Chemistry, Information Management, Computing & Software Systems, Material Science, Printing Management Science, Laser Optics, Physics, Material Science, or Engineering. All application must be received by September 30th of the current year. Further information is available at www.xerox.com

Zuckerman Fellowships: Enables U.S. students who are already enrolled in, or who have recently graduated from, professional degree programs in medicine, law, or business to pursue an additional degree at one of the following schools at Harvard: the John F. Kennedy School of Government, the Graduate School of Education, or the School of Public Health. Recipients receive full tuition plus health insurance and a $30,000 stipend. Candidates are selected on the basis of their leadership abilities, intellectual and academic achievements, and commitment to public service. The main requirement is that Zuckerman Fellows make a moral commitment to spend a significant portion of their careers working to advance the common good. Application deadline for the fellowship is mid-January. www.zuckermanfellows.harvard.edu/
Internships, post-baccalaureate work, and summer program opportunities

Advancing Science, Serving Society—sponsors numerous fellowships and internships in parks science, technology and congress, mass media and science, science and human rights, etc. For links for more detailed information about each of these opportunities, go to www.aaas.org/careercenter/

American Association for the Advancement of Science
American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) is an international non-profit organization dedicated to advancing science around the world by serving as an educator, leader, spokesperson and professional association. In addition to organizing membership activities, AAAS publishes the journal Science, as well as many scientific newsletters, books and reports, and spearheads programs that raise the bar of understanding for science worldwide. For information on internships, http://www.aaas.org/careercenter/

American India Foundation Service Corps Fellowships:
Sends talented and skilled young Americans to work with leading non-governmental organizations in India for a period of ten months. The program serves as an exchange of technical skills and intellectual resources which aims to build the capacity of Indian NGOs while developing American leaders with an understanding of India. The experience enables committed individuals make a deep impact in the development sector by working at a grassroots level with various NGOS striving to advance social and economic change in India. The Fellows immerse themselves with organizations working on causes related to livelihood, primary education, public health and human rights. During the Fellowship, AIF provides a range of support to Fellows, including training, technical support, ongoing supervision, a stipend that includes a housing, food and transport allowance, supplemental health insurance as well as travel to and from India.
www.aifoundation.org/serve/servicecorps/default.htm
American Jewish Committee Goldman Fellowship: The Program is designed to develop future leaders in the areas of international and domestic politics, diplomacy, public relations, and management. This selective paid Fellowship gives a group of young people the unique opportunity to work for a period of nine weeks full-time at offices throughout the world—from San Francisco to Geneva, Switzerland, and from New York to Melbourne, Australia. Fellows receive $3,000 for the nine-week summer program plus major travel expenses. Other field offices include Brussels, Santiago, and Warsaw. Fellowships are available in the following fields: Domestic and Legal Policy, Human Rights Advocacy, International Policy and Diplomacy, Media Relations, Global Jewish Affairs, and International Relations. Open to undergraduates in their junior or senior years. Deadline date: 3/1 Website: www.ajc.org

American Museum of Natural History (AMNH) internships: support students enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs in anthropology and related fields. Grants provide monthly stipends for periods of two months to one year. The minimum work requirement for a paid internship is two days per week. Deadline is April 1 for the summer or fall internship and December 1 for the spring internships. Application form is on-line at //research.amnh.org/grants/anthrointern.html

American Political Science Association’s Ralph Bunche Summer Institute: RBSI is a five week, academically intensive summer program designed to simulate the graduate school experience, provide mentoring, and expand academic opportunities for African American, Latino/Latina, and Native American undergraduate students between their junior and senior years of college. Kaplan provides GRE exam prep and reps from leading Ph.D. granting institutions come to participate in recruitment fair. They visit with Bunche students, provide information about their doctoral programs, and discuss admissions concerns with the students. The Institute provides full support of tuition, transportation, room and board, books, and instructional materials. Participants will also receive a stipend of $200 a week. Further details on website www.apsanet.org
American University in Cairo Presidential Internship Program: Provides selected individuals with the opportunity to learn Arabic, work at an international university, and experience life in Cairo. The internship positions are only available for one academic year and interns must have earned a bachelor's degree from an accredited U.S. institution. Potential placements are the Office of the President, the Office of Communications and Marketing, the Office of Institutional Research, the Office of the Provost, the Desert Development Center, or the Office of the VP for Planning and Administration. For more information and deadlines, go to http://aucegyptinternship.interviewexchange.com

Americans for Informed Democracy; AID is calling for applications from globally conscious college students who are interested in a dynamic and fast-paced spring internship that will give them a hands-on introduction to the fields of global education, non-profit management, and youth organizing. This internship program offers students an unparalleled introduction to the diverse professional opportunities within international NGOs. Interns help lead media outreach, grant-writing, partnership development, fundraising, civic education, and long-term strategy development. AID's internship is also unique in involving college students directly in the highest levels of the organization's management, allowing them to play influential roles in shaping the group's agenda. Both full- and part-time internships are available, and although a stipend is not available, it is possible for you to work from your current home base. Interested applicants should send a resume and cover letter that specifies their availability to Sarah Bush, Co-Executive Director, Americans for Informed Democracy, 123 York Street, Suite 10A, New Haven, CT, 06511. Applications may also be submitted electronically to sarah@aidemocracy.org.
Antipoverty Fellowship: A ten-week antipoverty fellowship. Fellowships are available from January/February-April and May/June-August. Currently, focus area for Fellows include: rural development, asset generation, and family strengthening. Fellows are expected to quickly master the issue area and provide critical analysis for enhancing impact and sustainability. Fellows should be available to work ten consecutive weeks. They will receive $3,000 plus work-related expenses. Applicant should e-mail application to Susan Fort, Fort@CampaignConsultation.com. Further inquiries about the fellowship should be directed to 410-243-7979, x-17.

Arena Stage’s Allen Lee Hughes Fellowships: Established to increase the participation of people of color in professional theater. The program offers personalized training opportunities with Arena’s ensemble of resident artists, technicians, and administrators. Training is supplemented with conferences with directors and designers and seminars with department heads to provide insight into the overall management of the theater. The fellowship requires a 40-44 week commitment and availability for work in the areas of artistic and technical production, arts administration and Community Engagement with a modest stipend. Transportation is the responsibility of the Fellow. Candidates must possess at least an undergraduate degree and have arts-related training and experience. Visit www.arenastage.org for application guidelines and deadlines.

Arms Control Association: The Arms Control Association (ACA) has a limited number of stipend intern positions. Interns are involved in many facets of ACA’s work including: researching arms control and security issues for articles and fact sheets; assisting in preparing and editing ACA’s monthly journal Arms Control Today; monitoring activity in the press and on Capitol Hill; and supporting the analysts in a variety of administrative tasks. Interns are encouraged to engage in substantive discussions with ACA analysts in order to gain a deeper understanding of the arms control field. For more information, visit: http://www.armscontrol.org/internships.asp
Robert Bosch Foundation Fellowship: Enables young American professionals to acquire an in-depth understanding of the political, economic, and cultural environment of Germany and European Union. The nine-month program consists of three seminars and two work phases, during which fellows complete executive-level internships in major German institutions, including the Federal Government, the Federal Parliament, headquarters of private corporations, think-tanks, and media and cultural organizations. Seven months of German language training in the U.S. and Berlin are provided prior to the start of the program in September. Fellows receive a living stipend of EURO 1,800 per month, with additional funds available for spouses and children. Fellows are competitively chosen from five fields: Business Administration/Economics, Journalism/Mass Communications, Law, Political Science, and Public Affairs/Public Policy. Applicants must be U.S. citizens between the ages of 23-34 and, ideally, have completed a graduate degree prior to the beginning of the program. Knowledge of German is not required at the time of application. Applications must be received no later than mid-October. To download an application, http://www.cdsintl.org/fromusa/bosch.htm.

Robert Bosch Tutor Program for the Promotion of American Language and Area Studies in Germany employs persons who have completed their first higher education degree as tutors (10 months—from mid Sept. to mid-July) in the student halls of residence run by local Studentenwerk facilities in the new federal regional states. Accommodation in the halls represents a central element of the program, with tutors arranging conversational groups, area study seminars, language courses, and cultural events for their students. A good knowledge of German is required. Deadline usually scheduled for the end of January but check website for updates. Website: www.student-affairs.de/interna/infoprog.htm
California State Senate Fellows Program: Offers college graduates a paid, full-time legislative staff position in the State Capital for 11 months. Fellows participate in academic seminars conducted by Cal State at Sacramento, earning 12 units of graduate credit. Fellows provide Senate members and policy committees with research and other professional staff assistance and are expected to have strong interest in public policy and politics but prior legislative experience is not required. Monthly stipend is approximately $2,000 and Fellows receive health and dental benefits. Applicants are encouraged to use the online application form and the deadline for last year was 2/29/09. www.csus.edu/calst/senate

Carnegie Junior Fellowship: Available to college seniors or recently graduated college students from the past academic year. Junior fellows work as research assistants to the Endowment's Senior Associates in such fields as non-proliferation, democracy building, and international economics. Fellowships begin on July 1 and continue for one year. Coursework in Economics or Political Studies would be helpful. Nomination from the college is required. There is a monthly salary. Institutional deadline is Nov. 30, 2011. http://www.ceip.org/files/about/about_junior.asp

Center for American Progress
One very important goal of American Progress is to inspire and educate the next generation of progressive Americans. American Progress offers full and part-time internships each summer and academic semester. For more information, visit: http://www.americanprogress.org/site/pp.asp?c=biJRJ8OVF&b=9880
Center for Arms Control and Nonproliferation: offers full-time internship opportunities for students of political science, international relations, peace studies, or related fields. Founded in 1980, the Center was established to educate policymakers, the media, and the public about weapons of mass destruction, conventional arms sales, military spending and arms control alternatives. The Center supports projects researching various aspects of U.S. national security, including: military spending, missile defense, non-proliferation, and chemical and biological weapons control. For more information, visit: http://www.armscontrolcenter.org/about/employment.html

Center for Science in the Public Interest internships: The Center is a national consumer organization that focuses on health and nutrition issues and offers internships for a small number of qualified undergraduates each summer and during the school year. Generally, an internship is for ten weeks and interns are paid an hourly wage of $8.25/hour. Examples of internship projects are nutrition and public policy; legal affairs; alcohol and public policy; grassroots advocacy; food safety; biotechnology; integrity in science; and litigation. Website: www.cspinet.org/about/jobs/200081042.html

*Center for Strategic and International Studies internships: CSIS offers full and part-time internships in the fall, spring and summer for undergraduates, advanced students, and recent graduates who are interested in gaining practical experience in public policy related to defense, security, and regional transformation. Must at least be a junior and have at least a 3.0 gpa. Interns must be eligible to work in the U.S. Most internships are unpaid but there are a few that offer stipends. http://www.csis.org/index.php?option=com_csis_job&itemid=55
Charles G. Koch Summer Fellow Program
The Charles G. Koch Summer Fellow Program offers internships in public policy located in Washington, DC, and at state-based policy organizations across the country featuring a $1,500 stipend. Applicants must be eligible to work in the U.S. Deadline: late-January.
http://www.theihs.org/internship_programs/id.329/default.asp

Citizens for Global Solutions Everett Program
Citizens for Global Solutions offers internships for undergraduates, graduate students, and recent graduates. Interns carry out advocacy on issues related to the five program areas of the organization: U.S. Global Engagement, Peace and Security, International Law and Justice, International Institutions, and Health and Environment. Interns are provided a small stipend for daily work-related expenses. For more information, visit:
http://www.globalsolutions.org/involved/interns_volunteers.html

Henry Clay Student Congress: The Henry Clay Center educates a new generation of leaders in the principles and practices of statesmanship as exemplified by the great Kentucky statesman, Henry Clay. This exposes a top college junior from every U.S. State to a curriculum in diplomacy, dialogue, listening skills, negotiation and mediation. The five-day curriculum at the University of Kentucky and Transylvania University in Lexington focuses not only on theory, but also on the practices of statesmanship. The history and context of Henry Clay and his approaches and contributions to statesmanship are at the center of the course. Students hear from top speakers from around the world on conflict resolution, decision making in a shared power world and national and international relations. Full scholarships are provided for fifty-one rising college seniors representing all fifty states and the District of Columbia. Students are recommended to attend the Congress by senior U.S. Senators.
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=b48iELGYevo
Collegiate School Teaching Institute: twelve-day summer program designed to introduce college students of color to teaching in independent schools. Selected participants will be reimbursed for reasonable travel expenses to and from NYC and will receive free housing at International House at Columbia University plus most meals. Application deadline is usually mid-May.

City Year Program: 10 months of full-time service as tutors, mentors, and role models to make a difference in the lives of children, and transform schools and neighborhoods in 17 U.S. locations and Johannesburg, South Africa. To participate, you must be between the ages of 17 and 24, a U.S. citizen or legal permanent resident alien, be ready to dedicate 10 months to full-time service, be a high school graduate, have served no more than 2 terms in another AmeriCorps, NCCC, or VISTA program; and agree to a background or security check. Apply on line:
http://www.cityyear.org/whatwedo.aspx

Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute (CHCI) Public Policy Fellowship: This is a paid fellowship program that offers talented Latinos, who have earned a bachelor’s degree within two years of the program start date, the opportunity to gain hands-on experience at the national level in public policy. Fellows have the opportunity to work in congressional offices and federal agencies, depending upon their area of interest.
http://www.chci.org/fellowships/
Congressional Hunger Center (CHC) Fellowships: The Bill Emerson National Hunger Fellows Program--Fellows are placed for six months with urban and rural community-based organizations all over the country involved in fighting hunger at the local level; then, they move to Washington, DC to complete the year with six months of work at national organizations involved in the anti-hunger and poverty movement, including national advocacy organizations, think tanks, and federal agencies. Deadline was 1/20/10. The Mickey Leland International Hunger Fellows Program--provides exceptional individuals, usually with a Master’s degree, the opportunity to work within a service capacity while simultaneously developing and refining skills important in the global fight against hunger. Fellows are placed in institutions that include multi-lateral organizations, U.S. government development agencies, international and local NGOs, and private sector entities. The duration of the fellowship is two years, with a field placement during the first year in a developing country followed by a second year-long placement within a policy environment. Deadline is usually early January but check website at http://www.hungercenter.org/national/applicationinfo.htm

Coro Fellows Program in Public Affairs: A nine-month, full-time, graduate-level leadership training program. Fellowships are located in major cities throughout the US. Fellowship includes 6 internships in various fields such as government, business, media, political campaigns, labor unions, and non-profits. Nomination required. BA degree required. Tuition is $3,500 but financial aid is available. Deadline is mid-January. http://www.coro.org/

*Echoing Green Fellowship Program: Two-year fellowships are awarded to individuals with innovative ideas for creating tackling social challenges. Recipients develop their ideas working in the community by launching, managing, and growing organizations that implement and continue to expand their ideas for creating lasting social change. Individuals receive $30,000 per year for two years as financial support with a monthly stipend for health insurance. There is also technical assistance available. The application is due early December. http://www.echoinggreen.org
El Pomar Fellowship in Community Service: This is a two-year post-Bachelor’s program emphasizing leadership development. Fellows serve the Foundation operating programs. In addition, they are thoroughly educated in the nature of non-profit sector and the role of foundations. Candidates must have some relationship to Colorado---resident, went to college there, immediate family present or past residents. Deadline is mid-January. Website: http://www.tlww.com/elpomar/leader1.html

Émigré Memorial German Internship Program: A scholarship program for Political Science, International Relations, and German Studies majors that provides American students and young professionals (graduated within a year of the start of the program) the opportunity to intern at the Landtage—German State Parliaments. This is a great opportunity for those interested in specific policy issues such as the environment, education and/or healthcare as well as those hoping to pursue careers at a regional level of government in the US. Participants gain practical work experience with a state parliament, utilize their German skills and experience the culture firsthand. The EMIP program runs three times a year—fall, spring, and early summer—for one to three months. http://www.cdsintl.org/fellowshipsabroad/emgip.php

FBI Honors Internship Summer Program: Offers students an insider’s view of FBI operations as well as providing an opportunity to explore the many career options within the Bureau. Honors interns are assigned to an FBI Headquarters division in D.C. according to their academic discipline, potential contribution to the division, and the needs of the FBI. Interns are paid at the GS-6 pay grade which equates to $1,270 per each two-week pay period. The program begins the first Monday in June and ends on the second Friday in August. Deadline for receipt of applications for the Summer program is early October. Website: www.fbjobs.gov/231.asp
James A. Finnegan Summer Internship: Students are assigned paid positions in state government executive offices under the governor’s jurisdiction and attend seminars with leading elected or appointed public officials and media figures. In order to receive an additional monetary awards, applicants must be available to secure an internship during the summer for a minimum of 8 weeks and a maximum of 10 weeks, generally beginning in late May and ending mid- to late August. Each Finnegan award is for $1,500 but there are additional awards of $1,000. Application deadline is early February. For more information, go to www.finneganfoundation.org.

John Kenneth Galbraith Fellowship: Seeks recent graduates or graduate students of exceptional promise who have demonstrated interests in issues of inequality and social policy. Students of color and students of limited economic means are particularly encouraged to apply. Scholars work full-time in D.C. and are given a $1,000 stipend each month and the duration of the fellowship is 6, 8, or 12 months. Applicants should have majored in economics, international relations, public policy or related discipline and must demonstrate strong research/writing skills, community service, a commitment to liberal ideas, and plans for future study or a career in public policy. Start dates for fellowships are February, June, or September of each year and applications must be rec'd no later than 6 weeks before the start of each fellowship. http://www.adaction.org/pages/about/education-fund/galbraith-application.php

Elizabeth Greenshields Foundation: Grants for young artists working in the following areas: painting, drawing, print making, and sculpture. Each grant is $10,000. Website: //ise.calarts.edu/~stdafrs/web/greenshields.html

Pamela Harriman Foreign Service Fellowships: These fellowships provide a $5,000 award for two U.S. college students to work in the U.S. embassies in Paris and London and one U.S. college student to work in a component of the Office of the Secretary. The fellowships are available during summer sessions only. Applications of persons chosen by the Department of State for internships in London or Paris or in a component of the Office of the Secretary and who have authorized the Department to provide their information to other organizations will be forwarded to The Pamela Harriman Foreign Service Fellowship Program for consideration. Eligible candidates will be contacted with instructions on applying for a Harriman Fellowship. The Harriman Board has determined that only undergraduate students entering their junior or senior year and graduating seniors continuing their studies will be considered for a Fellowship. http://www.wm.edu/sites/harriman/about/index.php

Hastings Center (Bioethics) Internship: Provides undergraduate and graduate students the opportunity to work, either on a particular project or project-in-development or in a particular Hastings Center department such as Library, Editorial, or Development. For summer internships, applications should be received before March 1st. The Center offers two US$500 stipends annually to interns who are studying philosophy or religion. Emily Murray Stipends will be awarded based on: Academic ability, including strength of interest in philosophy or religion (please include a copy of your academic record with your application for an Emily Murray Stipend), and Ability of the applicant to make a substantial contribution to the Center’s work. The Center recognizes that the cost of most internships will exceed the value of the stipend. Website: www.thehastingscenter.org
Higher Education Administration Program (HEAP) Fellowships: For students and recent graduates to gain professional experience in one of the student service organizations in Germany. Internships are project-based and will enable individuals to work in several departments. Participants will receive a monthly stipend, dormitory housing, and health insurance during the nine-month programs. Participation is open to all fields of study but must have at least a bachelor’s degree at the start of the program and at least high-intermediate level in German proficiency. http://www.cdsintl.org/fromusa/heap.htm

Allen Lee Hughes Fellowship and Internship Program: The Program was established to increase participation of people of color in professional theater. Fellowships require a 40-44 week commitment and are available to work with seasoned professionals in the areas of artistic and technical production, arts administration and Community Engagement. Arena Stage will provide a modest stipend. Arena Stage may also assist in locating housing, but housing and transportation is ultimately the responsibility of the Fellow. Candidates are highly motivated individuals who must possess at least an undergraduate degree and have arts-related experience and training. Play producing fellowship deadline 6/1; Season Fellowship 4/1; and Summer Internship 3/1. www.arena-stage.org/about/employment/interns-fellows/general.shtml

*Samuel Huntington Public Service Award provides a stipend of $10,000 for a graduating college senior to pursue public service anywhere in the world. The award is designed to allow recipients to engage in a meaningful public service activity for one year before proceeding on to graduate school or a career. Applicants must develop their own proposal for public service in this country or abroad and may encompass any activity that furthers the common good. Awards are based on the quality of the proposal, academic record, and other personal achievements. Application deadline is mid-February. Website: www.nationalgridus.com/commitment/d4-1_award.asp
Insight Fellowship Program: One-year Insight Fellowships are given to exceptional individuals to: study and promote effective conflict management, make related international humanitarian contributions, and pursue related self-development. The Fellowship includes up to a $25,000 USD expense allowance to support multiple placements totaling one year, typically in three- to four-month blocks. Each Fellow is required to repay the amount of the $25,000 allowance used through individual fund raising efforts, regenerating the funds to ensure support for the next Fellow. This “pay forward” approach instills the values of sustainability and non-profit entrepreneurship. The first three-month placement is at the Boston offices of Insight Collaborative and its affiliate, Insight Partners. In Boston, Fellows begin fundraising to fulfill obligations to regenerate funds for future Fellows. The subsequent nine months are divided into three foreign placements, proposed and arranged by the Fellow. Applicant must be: (1) a graduate of an accredited college or university or in good standing to graduate prior to the start of the Fellowship; (2) fluent in English; (3) available and committed to serving 12 consecutive months from the start of the Fellowship; and (4) dedicated to fulfilling the purposes of the Fellowship Program. Application deadline is usually early December. www.insightcollaborative.org

Institute for Energy and Environmental Research internship: (IEER) is a non-profit technical institute dedicated to providing grassroots groups, journalists, educators, students, and policy makers with thoughtful, clear, and sound technical information on environmental, energy, and security issues. IEERs work is focused primarily on the health and environmental effects of nuclear weapons production and testing, nuclear disarmament and related security issues, and sound energy policy. Examples of intern projects include developing materials for IEER's annual technical training workshop and doing research and possibly writing for technical reports. College/university students with a background in math and science and a strong interest in the subjects IEER works on are welcome to inquire about internship opportunities by emailing ieer@ieer.org. For more information, visit http://www.ieer.org.
Institute for Policy Studies
The Institute for Policy Studies (IPS) is the nation's oldest and largest multi-issue think tank promoting progressive thought. As such, we have a number of “Public Scholars” with whom you can work to undertake challenging research, writing, and advocacy in a wide range of foreign and domestic policy issues. For more information on internships, visit: http://www.ips-dc.org/projects/internship.htm

Institute for Science and International Security
The Institute for Science and International Security (ISIS), a Capitol Hill-based non-profit research organization concerned with nuclear arms reduction and non-proliferation, seeks qualified undergraduate and graduate students for full time internships. For more information, visit: http://www.isis-online.org/about/intern.html

International Fellows Program: Nine-month, fieldwork opportunities with self-help, economic development projects in one of 17, primarily African, countries. Fellows are assigned to various development organizations such as Africare, CARE, Save the Children, TechnoServe, Opportunities Industrialization Centers International, or UNICEF to work on various types of community-based, development activities. The International Foundation for Education and Self-Help will pay for travel and orientation and provides an $800/month stipend during the nine months. Health insurance coverage and pre-departure and settling-in allowances are also provided. http://www.ifesh.org/international_fellows_program.htm
International Radio & Television Society (IRTS) Foundation Summer Fellowship: Teaches up-and-coming communicators the realities of the business through an all-expense-paid fellowship, which includes practical experience and career-planning advice. A select number of college Juniors, Seniors, and graduate students are chosen from over 800 applicants across the country. The program is nine weeks, early June to early August. The IRTS also offers a two-day Minority Career Workshop for college juniors, seniors, and recent grads with outstanding academic records and extracurricular experience. Must be a US citizen and submit essay and resume. Contact: Senior Director of Program Administration, IRTS Foundation, 420 Lexington Ave., Rm. 1714, NY, NY 10170-0101 or call 212/867-6650. http://www.irts.org

Japanese Exchange in Teaching (JET) Programme: JET participants work full-time as Assistant Language Teachers (ALTs) in the public school system or as Coordinators for International Relations (CIRs) in local government offices. With the JET Program, participants can gain valuable work experience abroad and explore a rich and historical culture. http://www.us.emb-japan.go.jp/JET/

Barbara Jordan Health Policy Scholars Program: Brings talented college seniors and recent graduates to Washington, D.C., where they are placed in congressional offices and learn about health policy issues, with a focus on issues affecting racial and ethnic minority and underserved communities. Through the nine-week summer program, scholars gain knowledge about federal legislative procedure and health policy issues, while further developing their critical thinking and leadership skills. Must be U.S. citizens who can show evidence of academic achievement and will demonstrate the following: Be a member of a population that is adversely affected by racial or ethnic disparities in health; and/or have experience working in or with programs that address health issues disproportionately affecting racial and ethnic minorities or have done previous academic work related to health disparities. http://www.kff.org/minorityhealth/bjscholars/index.cfm
Knowles Science and Mathematics Teaching Fellowships:
Fellows are young men and women who have received a bachelor’s or advanced degree in science, engineering or mathematics and are committed to teaching high school science and/or mathematics in U.S. schools. The fellowship supports them professionally and financially for up to five years through a teacher preparation program to eligibility for tenure. Throughout the five-year cycle, fellows are exposed to a variety of teaching resources, curriculum materials, research and experts in the field. Most importantly, fellows develop into a community of scholars of high school science and mathematics teaching - confident in their own teaching abilities, able to support each other and ready to act as leaders in science and mathematics education. Deadline is January. http: www.kstf.org/te_fellows

Library of Congress Junior Fellows Summer Intern Program: Working with the staff, curators, and the incomparable collections of the Library of Congress, interns will be exposed to a broad spectrum of library work: preservation, reference, access standards, information management and gift collections. No previous experience is necessary, but internships are competitive and special relevant skills are desirable. Selection will be based on academic achievement, letters of recommendation, and in most cases an interview with a selection official. Applicants must be U. S. citizens currently enrolled in a degree-granting program of study at an accredited institution of higher learning at the undergraduate or graduate levels, or have graduated since August 2009 from an undergraduate or graduate program. Summer internships will begin early June and run through mid-August. The comprehensive orientation program scheduled during the first week includes training in conservation techniques and instructions for the safe handling of rare materials. Interns will work 40 hours per week, Monday through Friday, and will receive a taxable income of $300.00 per week. Application deadline is early April. www.loc.gov/hr/jrfellows/about.html
Massachusetts Promise Fellowship Program: Deliver the resources that young people need to be successful in life by mobilizing and organizing community activity, creating and leading civic initiatives, and training and inspiring citizen volunteers. For a one-year, full-time commitment and 1700 hours of service, Fellows receive: a $13,000 living allowance, health insurance and benefits, free grad courses at Northwestern, a monthly transportation allowance, and a $4,725 educational award and student loan forbearance. Fellows are hired on a rolling basis each spring. http://www.masspromisefellows.org.

Math for America Fellowships: Four-year fellowship program trains recent grads to teach K-12 in either math or science and provides a stipend of $48,000, among other benefits. Placements are in Berkeley, Boston, LA, NYC, Utah, or Washington, DC. http://www.mathforamerica.org/web/guest/about-us

Mississippi Teacher Corps: Two-year program that recruits college graduates to teach in the Mississippi Delta. The program is designed for non-education majors and offers a host of benefits, including: Teacher training and certification, Full scholarship for a master's degree in education, job placement that includes full pay ($30,000+) and benefits, and the opportunity to make a difference in the lives of students in one of the poorest areas of the country. www.olemiss.edu/programs/mtc/Recruiting/description.html

McMurry Fellowships for Diversity Enrichment in Independent Schools: Designed to provide students of color the opportunity to discover and explore the range of professional opportunities available in private independent K-12 schools. Through regional competition, private schools award a financial stipend to students who demonstrate an interest in and determination to make the most of this one semester opportunity to work in a school. Applicant must be a college junior or senior, graduate student, or recent graduate. Fall semester deadline was mid-April . Check website for Spring deadline at www.mcmurrayfellowship.com
National Endowment for Humanities Paid Summer Internships: The Summer Internships Program introduces promising college students to the programs, policies, and operations of the federal agency charged with promoting scholarship, education, and public programming in the humanities in the United States. During their ten-week stay in Washington, D.C., interns will be assigned, in most cases, to one office of the agency to assist with daily work and participate in the intellectual life of NEH. Typically, an intern's time will be split between routine administrative duties and an individual project that makes best use of the intern's skills, talents, and interests. To be eligible for an internship, you must: be entering your junior or senior year in fall 2007; have declared an undergraduate major in one of the disciplines of the humanities or have a strong background in the humanities; and meet citizenship requirements. Each intern receives a stipend. The ten-week internship begins the beginning of June and concludes early August. Travel, housing, and board are the responsibility of the intern, but NEH will pay 75% of the total stipend in advance of the internship start date to help with these expenses. All applicants offered internships will be asked to provide transcripts verifying their grade point average (G.P.A.) and active enrollment status as a condition of the award. Applications are usually accepted online at http://grants.neh.gov/ until early January.

National Gallery of Art paid internships: The nation's foremost art gallery, located in D.C., offers nine-week summer internships to exceptionally qualified recent graduates, with preference given to students enrolled in a graduate program or who are recent M.A., M.F.A., or M.Arch. graduates. Applicants from all backgrounds are encouraged to apply. The stipend is $3,600 and a housing allowance of $1,000 is offered to qualified candidates. The deadline for submission of applications is mid-January. www.nga.gov/education/interned.htm
The National Institute of Health Academy: A program that provides opportunities for recent college graduates to spend a year engaged in biomedical investigation at the National Institutes of Health (NIH) in Bethesda, Maryland. The mission of the Academy is to enhance research dedicated to the elimination of domestic health disparities through the development of a diverse cadre of biomedical researchers. Health disparities are differences in the incidence, prevalence, mortality, and burden of disease and other adverse health conditions that exist among specific population groups in the United States. There are two educational components to the program: seminars and workshops on topics related to health disparities and general knowledge and skills-development workshops. In order to encourage peer mentoring and facilitate interactions among members, the NIH Academy is a residential program. NIH Academy fellows are expected to initiate the application process for graduate and/or medical school during their term at the NIH. The duration of the program is normally one year. To be eligible for consideration, candidates must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents and have graduated from an accredited U.S. college or university. You must also be a recent college graduate (meaning that the Academy start date, at the end of August, is less than a year after your graduation from college with your first Bachelor's degree). The stipend for the NIH Academy fellows is $27,500. Website: www.training.nih.gov/student/pre-irta/previewacademy.asp

National Puerto Rican Public Policy Fellowship: Candidates must be recent graduates for this one-year fellowship. NPRC works to analyze and influence federal policies that affect Puerto Ricans living in the U.S., focusing on education, community development, civil rights, housing, employment, etc. The Fellow will receive $25,000 and health, life, and disability insurance, along with a $3,000 housing stipend to be paid in monthly installments. Applicants should go to the Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship website for details @ www.mmuf.org/pages/fellowships.htm
New Voices Fellowship: Enables prospective Fellows with valuable education, skills, and experience and small US-based nonprofits to work together for two years. The organization must address international human rights, women's rights, HIV/AIDS, foreign policy/peace & security, international economic policy, migrant and refugee rights, and/or racial injustice, etc. The organization and the Fellow apply together and the Fellow receives salary and benefits through the money given to the organization. The host organization receives a computer to support the work of the Fellow. Deadline is usually early January each year. http://www.aed.org/newvoices

New York City Teaching Fellows: An alternative certification program through the NYC Department of Education. The program seeks to hire mid-career changers or recent college graduates who wish to become full-time teachers in the NYC public schools beginning in September 2007. The Fellowship focuses on recruiting and training talented individuals who do not have any previous teaching experience or educational coursework. Key components of the program include: Full teacher’s benefits and salary (starting at $39K), a subsidized Master’s degree in Education, and an intensive pre-service summer training with living stipend. Their website has further details. http://www.nycteachingfellows.org

New York City Urban Fellowships: This is a nine month program that combines work in Mayoral offices and City agencies with an intensive seminar component that explores key issues facing New York City government. Open to all students who are interested in pursuing a career in public service but who are recent college graduates (no more than two full years out of college), this program offers a stipend and a choice of paid health insurance plans. Applicants must be prepared to participate in the program on a full-time basis for one full academic year. Deadline for applications is usually in January each year. www.ci.nyc.ny.us/html/dcas/html/urbanfellows.html
North American Language and Culture Assistants in Spain Grants: Must be in the final year of or have successfully completed BA/BS and have an intermediate to advanced level of Spanish. Grantees will work as English language assistant teachers under the supervision and guidance of a classroom teacher approximately 12 hours per week. A monthly allowance of $820 is given and the duration of the grant is eight months, from October to May. www.mec.es/sgci/usa/en/programs/us_assistants/default.shtml

Phillips Exeter Academy Internships: Six to eight recent college graduates join Phillip Exeter’s faculty as teaching interns. Aims to encourage talented young men and women to become secondary school teachers and to help prepare them for such a career. For these positions at least a bachelor’s degree is required in the specific, advertised field or a related field. Rolling admission. http://www.exeter.edu/171_313.aspx

Physicians for Social Responsibility internships: PSR offers internships for undergraduate and graduate students all year, with terms usually beginning in January, May, and September. Roles and responsibilities typically include assisting PSR staff with a full range of program activities, including outreach to members and other activists, and the development of fact sheets, position papers, and legislative alerts for health professionals and other activists. The intern conducts research on PSR issues, and attends coalition meetings and some congressional briefings and hearings as needed. For more information, visit: http://www.psr.org/home.cfm?id=internships

Project on Government Oversight internships: The main job of Project on Government Oversight interns is to assist in researching government subservience to special interests. The intern’s research often requires them to file Freedom of Information Act requests as well as go to congressional hearings, the Library of Congress and different government agencies. Besides research, interns also write opinion-editorial pieces for media release and assist in the writing and editing of testimony to be delivered at Congressional hearings. http://pogo.org/p/x/internships.html
Psychologists for Social Responsibility: Searching for energetic, motivated, and peace-oriented undergraduate and graduate students to serve as interns. Interns will have the opportunity to work on a wide variety of projects, such as: researching current national and international issues or policy, assisting with the publication of PsySR's newsletter, planning and organizing meetings and conferences, website maintenance, and general administrative support. Intern positions will be tailored to each intern's specific interests and capabilities so that the internship experience will be a mutually beneficial one. Interns may apply to work at PsySR for any period of time. Both psychology students and non-psychology students are encouraged to apply. To apply, please send a cover letter explaining your interest in PsySR, a resume, and a short writing sample on any topic that demonstrates your writing ability to Anne Anderson, PsySR Coordinator, at anderson@psysr.org or by snail mail at: Psychologists for Social Responsibility 208 "I" Street NE, Washington, DC 20002

Public Policy & International Affairs Fellowship Program:
Must be U.S. citizens or legal permanent resident to apply to the Junior Summer Institutes (JSI) hosted by Berkeley, Maryland and Michigan. International applicants pursuing a bachelor's degree in the U.S. will be considered by Carnegie Mellon and Princeton. Must have completed junior year of college by the start of JSI and have at least one full semester of coursework remaining before graduation; must be committed to completing a Master’s Degree in public and/or international affairs at one of the PPIA Consortium graduate schools; must demonstrate an interest in pursuing a professional career associated with public service; must contribute to the diversity of perspectives; economic need is given consideration. The successful completion of a summer institute is a requirement for PPIA Fellows. As a PPIA Fellow you are entitled to the following benefits: Full tuition at a PPIA Junior Summer Institute; Eligibility to receive assistance with travel expenses; Minimum of $1,000 stipend; University housing with a meal plan; Books and related course materials; and GRE prep.
http://www.ppiaprogram.org/about/
Leonard M. Reiser Fellowship in Science, Technology, and Global Security: Provides a one-time award of $2,500-$5,000 to undergraduate students seeking to explore the connections between science, technology, global security, and public policy. Any undergraduate student studying in the U.S. is eligible. The Fellowship may be used over the course of one year to support academic research or professional development, in the US or abroad. Last year’s deadline was March 3rd. For further details, consult website: www.thebulletin.org/fellow/

J.W. Saxe Fund Memorial Prize: Meant to enable a student to gain practical experience by taking a no-pay or low-pay job or internship during a summer or other term in the field of public service. Preference will be given to applicants who have already found such a position, but who require the additional $1,500 to help support themselves. Deadline is March 15th each year. Website: www.jwsaxefund.org

William E. Simon Fellowship for Noble Purpose: Awarded by the Intercollegiate Studies Institute to graduating college seniors who have demonstrated passion, dedication, a high capacity for self-direction, and originality in pursuit of a goal that will strengthen civil society. The top award is $40,000 with the additional fellows receiving grants of $20,000 and $10,000 each. http://www.isi.org/programs/fellowships/simon.html

Student Pugwash USA: As a student organization, Student Pugwash USA encourages young people to examine the ethical, social, and global implications of science and technology, and to make these concerns a leading focus of their academic and professional endeavors. SPUSA offers several unpaid internships. For more information, visit: http://www.spusa.org/about/internships.html#studentorganizer Taxpayers for Common Sense internships: Politically independent, Taxpayers for Common Sense (TCS) works with members of Congress and the Executive Branch, along with activists of all political philosophies, to cut wasteful government spending and reduce federal subsidies. TCS's dynamic approach bridges the gap between liberals and conservatives to achieve common-sense solutions that streamline government and make a positive contribution for the taxpayers of today and tomorrow. For information on internships and fellowships, visit:
http://www.taxpayer.net/about/employment.htm

Turning the Tide Fellowship: Sponsored through the Public Allies and Alliance for Children and Families programs, this opportunity is ideal for young adults who value working with vulnerable populations, engaging in continuous learning opportunities, and relish building relationships to sustain personal and professional development. Impact the lives of children and families through challenging two-year work positions with multi-service. www.publicallies.org
http://www.publicallies.org/site/c.liKUL3PNLvF/b.3996643/

United States Aid for International Development Summer Internships: USAID had a limited amount of paid summer internships for highly motivated undergraduate and graduate students studying a wide variety of fields, including engineering, computer science, mathematics, economics, foreign languages, area studies, business administration, accounting, international relations, finance, logistics, human resources, geography, public health, national security studies, military and foreign affairs, political science and public administration. Selected interns will be placed in various bureaus within the agency. The basic qualifying factors to be eligible for this program are: U.S. Citizenship, Current Enrollment in a College or University, and A minimum Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.0. There are also a good number of volunteer student internships available both here and abroad. http://www.usaid.gov/careers/studentprograms.html
U.S. Department of State Summer Internship Program:
Intern duties and responsibilities may vary according to the post or office of assignment. Some interns may write reports on human rights issues, assist with trade negotiations, assist with citizen’s services or visa work, help Americans in distress abroad, or organize conferences or visits of high-level officials. Others may research economic or environmental issues, write news stories, work on web pages or help produce electronic journals. Interns with scientific and technical backgrounds might work with issues such as arms control, genetically modified organisms (GMOs), infectious diseases, and remote sensing. Those interested in management may use their expertise working on projects involving budgets, human resources, information systems, or general logistical support to posts abroad. Some may be involved in educational and cultural exchange activities. Interns are also instrumental in the recruiting of U.S. speakers and specialists for overseas programs. The majority of internships are unpaid and housing is not provided for domestic internships; for internships at foreign embassies, every effort is made to provide housing for internships at no cost. Most internships last 10 consecutive weeks and the intern is expected to work a 40-hour week.
http://careers.state.gov/students/programs.html#SIP

Washington Center for Internships Scholarship for College Students with Disabilities: Funded by the AT&T Foundation and HSC Foundation, these awards typically provide $2,500 to competitively selected students who self-identify as having a disability, as defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). Priority consideration is given to undergraduate students; however, Postgraduate Program applicants may be considered. We are pleased to announce an increase in this scholarship for participates in our summer 2010 programs in Washington, D.C. We will provide full TWC housing scholarships for selected students with disabilities in the amount of $3,540 for the summer.
http://www.twc.edu/disability_scholarships.shtm
Wellstone Fellowship for Social Justice: Designed to foster the advancement of social justice through participation in health care advocacy work that focuses on the unique challenges facing many communities of color. The fellowship will be based in the Families USA office in D.C. and will afford the Fellow the opportunity to learn about Medicare, Medicaid, efforts to achieve universal coverage, and other important health care policy issues. At the same time, the Fellow will learn about conducting health care campaigns through communication and collaboration with state grassroots advocates and organizations. The fellowship is for one year (8/08-7/09) and Fellows will receive a compensation package that includes an annual stipend (mid-$30’s) and excellent health care benefits. Deadline is usually early February. http://www.familiesusa.org

Women’s Actions for New Directions internships: WAND empowers women to act politically to reduce violence and militarism and redirect excessive military resources toward unmet human and environmental needs. WAND offers internships in Boston headquarters office, Washington, DC legislative office and Atlanta field office. For more information, email info@wand.org or visit: http://www.wand.org

Women’s International League for Peace and Freedom The Women’s International League for Peace & Freedom is a 90-year-old international women’s organization with sections in 37 countries and 80 groups and branches in the United States. WILPF works for the equality of all people in a world free of racism, sexism, classism, homophobia, and all other oppression; for world disarmament and peaceful resolution of conflicts; and for an end to all forms of violence. For information on internships, visit: http://wilpf.org/get-involved/internjob.htm
World Policy Institute
The World Policy Institute's Internship Program, offers advanced undergraduate and graduate students the opportunity to gain practical experience in policy research and advocacy on international issues by assisting with the production of the World Policy Journal and conducting research for the Institute's senior fellows. For more information, visit: http://www.worldpolicy.org/wpi/intern.html
External Opportunities for Undergraduate Research

American Bar Foundation Summer Research Fellowships for Minority Undergraduates: Designed to expose students to the demands of a career in research in the field of law and social science. Must identify as American, Black, Mexican, or Puerto Rican and have completed sophomore year in college. Duration of fellowship is 35 hours per week for 10 weeks. Stipend is $3600. Applications usually due mid-March. www.abf-sociolegal.org/Fellowship/mpost.html

American Center for Oriental Research sponsors the following fellowships for undergraduate research: 1) Bert and Sally de Vries Fellowship—one award of $1,200 to support a student for participation on an archaeological project or research in Jordan. 2) MacDonald/Sampson Fellowship—one award for either six weeks residency at the Center for research in the fields of Ancient Near Eastern languages and history, archaeology, Bible studies, or comparative religion, or a travel grant to assist with participation in a field project in Jordan. The residency fellowship includes room and board and a $600 stipend. Applicants must be of Canadian citizenship or landed immigrant status. Deadline for both is 2/1/10. www.bu.edu/acor/fellowsh.htm

American Institute for Economic Research awards Summer Fellowships to college seniors who will be entering a doctoral program in economics or affiliated program (e.g., law and economics, economic history, etc.). Fellows come to the Institute for a four-week period of study and are provided with room and board plus a $250/wk stipend. Those who demonstrate exceptional potential are awarded Fellowships in-absentia if they are enrolled in an accredited graduate-degree program in economics for the succeeding academic year. In absentia-Fellows receive full or partial payment of tuition or a monthly stipend for all or part of the academic year, or both. Awards average $5,000. Application deadline is usually the end of March each year. http://www.aier.org/fellowships.
American Jewish Archives Fellowships: The program was founded with the intent of creating a forum where students and scholars of the American Jewish experience could gather together to research, discuss, and study their chosen topics. Scholars come to conduct research at the American Jewish Archives and to take part in the academic community of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion. The Program provides recipients with month long fellowships for research and writing at The Jacob Rader Marcus Center of the American Jewish Archives, located on the Cincinnati campus of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion. Fellowship stipends will be sufficient to cover transportation and living expenses while in residence. Deadline is March 18, 2010. www.americanjewisharchives.org/aja/programs/

American Physiological Society Undergraduate Summer Research Fellowships: Support full-time first through third year undergraduates to work in the laboratory of an established investigator. Students must have at least a 3.0 GPA. Stipend is $4,000 for 10 weeks of support. Grant to faculty sponsor is $300. Up to $1300 travel grant to attend the following year’s APS annual meeting. There is no citizenship requirement. Online application was due 2/1/10. www.the-aps.org/awardapps

The Amgen Scholars Program: Offered by Columbia University and Barnard College, the program is an opportunity for a select group of motivated undergraduate students to benefit from the opportunity of hands-on biology related laboratory research. Selection is based on grades, recommendations, career plans, and previous experience. Must be a US citizen or permanent resident and currently a sophomore, junior, or non-graduating senior at a four-year college or university in the U.S. No previous research experience is necessary and you do not need to be a biology major. Students are expected to work full-time during the 10-week summer program. Participants receive a stipend of $4,000 and housing on the Morningside campus of Columbia University. Website: www.amgenscholars.com
Asian Cultural Council Individual Grants: Asian individuals in the visual and performing arts seeking grant assistance to conduct research, study, receive specialized training, undertake observation tours, or pursue creative activity in the United States are eligible to apply for fellowship support from the Council. Americans seeking aid to undertake activities in Asia are also eligible to apply. Deadline for submitting inquiries is 10/15 and for submitting applications after receiving a response from the inquiry, 11/15. www.asianculturalcouncil.org/?page_id=20

David S. Bruce Awards for Excellence in Undergraduate Research: Will be made each year at the Experimental Biology (EB) meeting to undergraduate students who have both submitted abstracts for the meeting and award application materials. All students will be invited to present their research posters at the EB meeting. The education committee will select finalists for interviewing. After the presentations and interviews, the awardees will receive $500 travel awards and certificates. For more information, go to www.the-aps.org/awards/student/bruce.htm

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, National Center for Environmental Health, Division of Laboratory Sciences Fellowship: Seeking summer Oak Ridge Institute for Science and Education (ORISE) Fellows to focus on public health issues related to the environment. Candidates will join projects associated with developing and applying new methods to characterize and quantitate biochemical markers that are relevant in environmental exposures and chronic diseases. The fellowship carries a stipend of approximately $2700 per month for full-time undergraduate fellows. Current undergraduate students majoring in applied sciences that have completed three years of major coursework may apply. Chemistry and biology majors are preferred. Application is available at http://orise.orau.gov/cdc and deadline is 1/16/15.
CNUP Summer Research Program: The Center for Neuroscience at the University of Pittsburgh sponsors a 10-week program in which undergraduates conduct independent research under the guidance of CNUP faculty. Recipients of this fellowship receive a $3,000 stipend and housing at no cost on campus. Students are responsible for their own meals and other expenses. We expect that most applicants will have completed their sophomore or junior year with a grade point average of 3.0 or higher, especially in science, math, and related coursework. Our goal is to give academically talented students the opportunity to experience the challenges and rewards of intensive, hypothesis-driven laboratory research in neuroscience. Although many students may already have some laboratory research experience, such experience is not a prerequisite. CNUP faculty investigate diverse aspects of how the nervous system functions. Website: //cnup.neurobio.pitt.edu/training/summer/index.aspx

DAAD German Studies Research Grant: Five research grants available to highly qualified undergraduate and graduate students. The grant may be used for short-term research (1-2 months) in either North America or Germany. Undergraduates with at least junior standing pursuing a German Studies track or minor may be nominated for the grant by their department Chair. Applicants are expected to have completed two years of college German and a minimum of three courses in German Studies (literature, history, politics or other fields) at the time of nomination. Grants are restricted to citizens of the US who are enrolled full time at the university that nominates them. Research support ranging in value from $1,500 to $2,500 is available to individual scholarship recipients and is intended to offset living and travel costs during the active research phase. Support cannot be provided for stays in Germany in the context of study abroad programs. See www.daad.org.
Environmental Protection Agency (EPA): Greater Research Opportunities (GRO) Fellowships for Undergraduate Students: Provides the opportunity for research at colleges with limited funding by awarding undergraduate fellowship to students in environmental fields. Eligible students receive financial support for their junior and senior year of undergraduate study and for an internship at an EPA facility during the summer between their junior and senior years. http://epa.gov/mcer/fellow/

Explorers Club Great Expeditions Grants: Grants ranging from $500-1500 are available each year for undergraduates dedicated to the advancement of scientific knowledge of the world through the Explorers Youth Activity Fund. You must be doing research in the natural sciences under the supervision of a qualified scientist. Last year’s deadline was January 15th. Website: www.explorers.org/resources/funding/funding

Foreign Policy Research Institute Assistantships: The FPRI is devoted to the scholarly research and public education on international affairs. Current research focuses on American foreign policy; American Defense and national security issues, Western Europe; East Asia, particularly the role of the People’s Republic of China in the region; and the Arab-Israeli peace process; and terrorism and political violence. Research Assistants help maintain data files, conduct literature searches, or compile other material. Editorial assistants analyze scholarly articles, copyedit, etc. All language skills are welcome but knowledge of Arabic, French, German, and Spanish is especially welcome. Assistantships are available for an academic year, a semester, or a summer. A minimum of 10 hours per week is required. Website: wwwfpri.org/about/jobs.html.
The Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Science Research (ICPSR) Undergraduate Research Paper Competition highlights exemplary undergraduate research student research papers that are based on quantitative analysis. The objective is to encourage students in the social sciences to explore a research topic by conducting quantitative analysis of a dataset or datasets held within the ICPSR archive and presenting it in written form. First place winner receives $1,000; second place receives $750; and third $500. The first place paper will be published in ICPSR’s Bulletin, and all three winning papers will be published on the ICPSR website.
http://www.icpsr.umich.edu/prize

Janelia Undergraduate Scholars program: Provides undergraduates an opportunity to spend 10 weeks during the summer to conduct research in the lab of a mentor at Janelia Farm, located in Loudoun County, Virginia. The scholars are encouraged to attend weekly seminars and other events at Janelia. At the end of the session, each scholar will present his/her work at a symposium. Housing is provided as well as meals and the allowance is $4500 for the ten-week period. Any matriculated undergraduate student may apply. Deadline is early January. http://www.hhmi.org/janelia/undergrad.html

Johns Hopkins Laboratory for Child Development Research Internships: The lab’s focus is on studying how young children perceive and think about the world around them. Student interns will gain experience in recruiting families to participate in our studies, understanding and helping to design experiments to be run with infants and children, constructing experimental stimuli, conducting experiment sessions with children and their parents, analyzing and interpreting data, and attending lab meetings in which general issues in cognitive development are discussed. Applicants should have experience with children. A background in psychology or development is preferred. The position is a full-time commitment. Depending on the strength of the application, we offer either: 1) 4 credit hours or 2) up to $1,800.00 in stipend money. Receipt of university credit is dependent on agreement from the student’s home institution. www.psy.jhu.edu/~labforchilddevelopment/

Marshall Undergraduate Research Scholarships: To give students at selected Mid-Atlantic colleges an opportunity to undertake research and writing projects using primary materials, including those of the George C. Marshall library in Lexington, VA. The Scholar may choose any subject involving 20th century diplomatic and military history or political affairs from 1898 to 1960. Scholars are nominated by their home institutions and work under the direction of a departmental professor. There is a $250 cash award plus travel expenses up to $300. The paper judged most outstanding still receives an additional $500. For details, go to www.marshallfoundation.org

Mayo Summer Undergraduate Research Fellowship (SURF) Program: $5000 research fellowships for undergraduate students dedicated to scientific research alongside professional biomedical scientists. Deadline: early February. http://www.mayo.edu/mgs/surf.html

Microbiology Undergraduate Research Fellowship: The goal of the Microbiology Undergraduate Research Fellowship (MURF) program is to increase the number of underrepresented undergraduate students who wish to, and have demonstrated the ability to pursue graduate careers (Ph.D. or M.D./Ph.D.) in microbiology. Students will have the opportunity to conduct full time summer research with an ASM member at a host institution, and present research results at the Annual Biomedical Research Conference for Minority Students and the ASM General Meeting. Deadline is usually early January. The program provides student stipends as well as money for lodging and roundtrip travel to ASM conference. www.murf.caltech.edu
Mount Sinai Hospital (NYC) Summer Undergraduate Research Program--Applications are invited from undergraduate students who are currently in their sophomore or junior years. Applicants should have a minimum GPA of 3.5, be motivated towards research, and be inclined towards graduate education in biomedical sciences, in a Ph.D. Program or M.D./Ph.D. Program. The award is based on the application materials, including the personal statement, the undergraduate record, and two letters of recommendation. The benefits of the award include: A $2,500 stipend; Full access to the benefits of the Mount Sinai Recreation Office; A cutting-edge research project in one of over 200 laboratories and Housing in one of Mount Sinai’s residential buildings. Deadline will be about mid-January. www.mountsinai.org

NASA Undergraduate Research Program (NURP): Female and male students of all races, creeds, colors, national origins, ages, and disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants must meet the following eligibility requirements to participate in NASA-USRP: U.S. Citizenship; classified as a Sophomore, Junior or Senior before the expected commencement of the internship session; academic major or demonstrated coursework concentration in engineering, mathematics, computer science, or physical sciences or life sciences; demonstrated strong interest/commitment to one of the above career fields or disciplines (e.g., science/math/engineering fairs, clubs, or awards; tutoring/mentoring; internships or other related experience); and minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 on a scale of 4.0 Website: www.epo.usra.edu/usrp

National Institute of Health (NIH) Undergraduate Scholarship Program: Awards to students from disadvantaged backgrounds who are committed to careers in biomedical, behavioral, and social science research. The awards pay for tuition and reasonable educational and living expenses up to $20,000 per academic year. In return, recipients are obligated to serve as paid employees in NIH research labs during the summer and after graduation. Deadline is end of February. http://ugsp.info.nih.gov/InfoUGSP/glance.htm
National Institute of Standards and Technology Summer Undergraduate Research Program (NIST-SURF): Designed for students majoring in science, math and engineering. Students can participate in any one of the nine NIST laboratories. It is a nine-week program, June through early August. Must be an undergraduate at a U.S. university or college, be a science major, have a G.P.A. of 3.0 or better, and are considering pursuing a graduate degree. Students with physics, material science, chemistry, applied mathematics, computer science, or engineering majors are always encouraged to apply. There may be research opportunities for students with other majors. Applications are usually due in mid-February and must be submitted through the Assistant Provost for Scholarship. Website: www.nist.gov/surf2.htm

National Science Foundation Research Experiences for Undergraduates (REU): An REU Site consists of a group of ten or so undergraduates who work in the research programs of the host institution. Each student is associated with a specific research project, where he/she works closely with the faculty and other researchers. Students are granted stipends and, in many cases, assistance with housing and travel. Undergraduate students supported with NSF funds must be citizens or permanent residents of the United States or its possessions. An REU Site may be at either a US or foreign location. Students must contact the individual sites for information and application materials. Contact person and contact information is listed for each site. Website: www.nsf.gov/crssprgm/reu/
Pace University Undergraduate Psychology Summer Internship Program: The Counseling Center at Pace’s New York City campus offers 2-4 undergraduate psychology summer internship positions. Program provides interns with the opportunity to experience, under supervision, the diverse functions of a professional psychologist in a university counseling center. These include scholarly research, outreach and consultation program development, and limited clinical work. Summer interns are involved in scholarly research including library research, scholarly writing, and statistical database management; consultation and outreach program development; and clinical services training. Additionally, summer interns are involved in individual supervision meetings with staff members, a staff and disposition meeting, and in-service seminars. Candidates must be enrolled in an undergraduate program in psychology or a related field and have a desire to earn an advanced degree in psychology or a related field. The internship is half-time (2.5 days per week) and unpaid. While housing is not provided to our interns, the University may offer housing to our interns at a reduced rate. Deadline for applications is January 16, 2010. Website: www.pace.edu/page.cfm?doc_id=7939

The Pasteur Foundation’s Zuccaire Internship Program: 10-week summer internship for U.S. undergraduates designed to encourage students in the pursuit of a scientific career and to expose them to an international laboratory experience. Interns will carry out research supervised by a lab mentor. Applicants should be self-sufficient enough to arrange travel and secure housing in Paris. Interns receive a living allowance of $400/week for a total maximum of $4,000. A $300 subsidy is provided to defray cost of travel and requisite insurance. Applicants must be undergraduates with an excellent academic record and a strong interest in biosciences and biomedical research, have completed 4 semesters of college course work by the time the internship commences, and not yet have received an undergraduate degree at the time of application. Knowledge of French is advisable. The 2009 application deadline was December 19th. www.pasteurfoundation.org.
The Sigma Xi Grants-in-Aid of Research (GIAR): Program which encourages close working relationships between students and faculty by promoting scientific excellence and achievement through hands-on learning. The program awards grants of up to $1,000 to students from all areas of the sciences and engineering. Designated funds from the National Academy of Sciences allow for grants of up to $5,000 for astronomy research and $2,500 for vision related research. Students use the funding to pay for travel expenses to and from a research site, or for purchase of non-standard laboratory equipment necessary to complete a specific research project. Students from any country are eligible to receive funding. Deadlines are March 15 and October 15 annually.

Social Science Research Council Fellowships
Social Science Research Council (SSRC) fellowship and grant programs provide support and professional recognition to innovators within fields, and especially to younger researchers whose work and ideas will have longer-term impact on society and scholarship. These programs often target the spaces between disciplines, where new perspectives emerge and struggle for acceptance, thus ensuring the production of knowledge and expertise on key topics, regions, and social challenges. They promote the diversification of knowledge production, strengthening research by ensuring that it remains open to (and challenged by) a range of perspectives, backgrounds, and nationalities. For more information, visit: http://www.ssrc.org/fellowships/all/
ThinkSwiss Research Scholarships: Support highly motivated and qualified undergraduate students attending US colleges to do research at a Swiss university for 2-3 months. Awardees of the scholarship: are currently enrolled at U.S. university/college; are undergraduate students who will have completed sophomore year by the time the research stay in Switzerland commences; are provided a written confirmation from a professor at a Swiss university that she/he will accept you for a research stay in her/his group. Applicants must ensure that they have insurance coverage applicable for their stay in Switzerland. While German, French or Italian language skills are not required for the research stay in Switzerland, knowledge of any of these languages would be helpful to manage everyday life. The working language will generally be English. The program provides a monthly scholarship of USD 700 for a period of 2 to 3 months (USD 2,100 maximum). Deadline is usually the end of March. Website: www.swissemb.org/scitech

Young Explorers Grants (YEG): Opportunities for individuals between the ages of 18 and 25 to pursue research, conservation, and exploration-related projects consistent with National Geographic's existing grant programs, including: the Committee for Research and Exploration (CRE), the Expeditions Council (EC), and the Conservation Trust (CT). Applicants are not required to have advanced degrees. However, a record of prior experience in the fields of research, conservation, or exploration should be submitted as it pertains to the proposed project. Funding is not restricted to United States citizens—foreign nationals are invited to apply. Researchers planning work in countries abroad should make great effort to include at least one local collaborator as part of their team. Young Explorers Grants vary in amount depending on significance of the project, though most range between US $2,000 and $5,000. www.nationalgeographic.com/field/grants-programs/yeg-application.html