Announcement of Courses - First Year Supplement

Fall, 2009

The following courses of instruction, which are described in the College Catalogue, will be offered during the fall semester and are open to first year students. Students may choose courses from this listing to begin a major field of study, to fulfill curricular goals, or to pursue an area of personal interest.

In general, first year students are not expected to focus on a major field of study. Experience shows that many students change their plans after they enter college as they encounter new academic areas and modes of teaching. The major field of study is part of the Gettysburg curriculum but only part --- equally important are the curricular goals and elective courses. So in deciding the classes in which you will register, think broadly about what your interests are now and what fields you can explore in college that you have not previously studied. A liberal arts education is about broad exploration of many areas, not a premature identification of a major.

You will be assigned a first year advisor later in the summer. The Dean of Academic Advising matches you with a faculty advisor based on your intellectual and creative interests and the first year course preferences you identify. You will have opportunities to meet with your advisor during Orientation and throughout the fall semester. In addition to the information provided in this booklet, you will find information about academic advising, the curriculum, and what courses to pursue if you are considering a specific major on the website of the Office of Academic Advising at <http://www.gettysburg.edu/about/offices/provost/advising/>.

You may qualify for advanced level courses as a result of Advanced Placement Tests, departmental exams or interviews with department chairpersons. However, for now, limit your course preferences to those listed in this supplement. You will have adequate opportunity to make course schedule changes in the fall.

Each listing contains the course number and title, day and time of class meeting, requirement fully or partially fulfilled, and in some instances, other special information or prerequisites. Please note that a day notation of R = Thursday so that a course listed as TR 1:10-2:25 meets Tuesday and Thursday 1:10-2:25. In addition, most departments have provided a statement to assist prospective majors in preparing a schedule. Even within majors, programs can be uniquely tailored to specific interests and backgrounds.

These are the requirement designations used in this booklet.

AFRICANA STUDIES

Africana Studies focuses on an examination and analysis of African American, other diasporan African (e.g. the Caribbean and Latin America), and continental African experiences, institutions, and perspectives. It is broadly defined as the study of peoples of Africa and the African diaspora for the purpose of improving their life opportunities. Prospective majors should choose AFS 130. For advising help, until July 14, contact Prof. Scott Hancock (shancock@gettysburg.edu); after July 14, contact Prof. Jennifer Bloomquist (jbloomqu@gettysburg.edu).

ANTHROPOLOGY

Those interested in majoring in Anthropology should take Anth 103 or Anth 106 during the first year. Anthropology 103 or 106 is a prerequisite for other Anthropology courses. For advising help, contact Andrea Cranga (acranga@gettysburg.edu).

ASIAN STUDIES

Prospective minors in East Asian Studies should start language study with Chinese 101 or Japanese 101. See Chinese and Japanese sections as well.

BIOLOGY

Prospective majors should note that Introductory Biology and Chemistry courses are year-long sequences. In their first year, prospective majors should take Biology 111 in the fall and Biology 112 in the spring. Since Chemistry is required for the Biology major, students who are sure of their intent to major in Biology should enroll in Chemistry 105 or 107 along with Biology 111 in the first semester. This permits a better integration of chemistry into upper level biology courses. Students may, however, delay chemistry until their second year and still complete the Biology major. Students who start their Biology major as sophomores need to take both Biology (111-112) and Chemistry (105 or 107-108) that year. A mathematics course (calculus or statistics) is required for the Biology major and should be completed in the first or second year. Students interested in medical school should consider taking both calculus and statistics before graduation.

For Advising Help: contact Prof. Delesalle (delesall@gettysburg.edu)

See the Department Handbook (<http://www.gettysburg.edu/academics/biology/documents/handbook2008.doc>)

BIOCHEMISTRY/MOLECULAR BIOLOGY

Students planning a major in the interdisciplinary Biochemistry and Molecular Biology program should take Biology 111 AND Chemistry 105 or 107 in the fall semester. Since Mathematics 111-112 is required for the BMB major, consideration should be given to enrolling in Math 111 during the first year. For advising help, contact Prof. Kazuo Huraizumi (hiraizum@gettysburg.edu) or Prof. Don Jameson (djameson@gettysburg.edu).

CHEMISTRY

Students planning a major in chemistry should take Chemistry 105 or 107 and Mathematics 111 or a higher level mathematics course during the fall semester.

See the Department Handbook (http://www.gettysburg.edu/academics/chemistry/department\_handbook.dot)

CHINESE

Students should begin Chinese at the 101 level unless there is prior study at the secondary level. Course level beyond 101 is determined by speaking with the instructor and/or taking an exam during orientation week. Contact Prof. Eleanor Hogan (ehogan@gettysburg.edu).

CIVIL WAR ERA STUDIES

Prospective minors in Civil War Era Studies should plan to take CWES 205 as soon as their course schedule allows.

Sample program of study: http://www.gettysburg.edu/civilwar/era\_studies/sample\_programofstudy.dot

CLASSICS

Students planning to continue their study of Latin must take the on-line placement exam. This is available as part of the Pre-Registration process for new students and by permission at the Department Office. Students planning to continue Greek should choose the level which seems appropriate. Prospective Classical Studies majors should continue or begin language study during their first year and select an entry level Civilization course during the first year or second year at the latest, in order to integrate a study abroad program into their studies. For advising help, contact the Chair of the department: Dr. GailAnn Rickert (grickert@gettysburg.edu).

COMPUTER SCIENCE

First-year prospective majors in Computer Science (CS) should schedule CS 111-112, and Math 111 during the first year. Each course of our introductory sequence, CS 111, 112, and 216, is offered each semester, so it is possible to begin the CS major at any point through sophomore year, although a later start will limit course choices and increase scheduling constraints. Students with CS Advanced Placement (AP) scores of 4 or 5 will receive credit for CS 111 and place into CS 112. Students without such AP scores may still place out of CS 111 with permission of a CS faculty member after an informal consultation. Please note that CS 103 does not count towards CS major requirements. Prospective majors in Mathematics or the Sciences are strongly encouraged to take CS 111 rather than CS 103. To learn more about the Computer Science major, please consult any CS faculty member (x6630), the CS chair Todd Neller; x6643 or tneller@gettysburg.edu, or read our CS handbook (http://cs.gettysburg.edu/resources/CS\_HANDBOOK.pdf)

ECONOMICS

Prospective majors in Economics should take Economics 101 in the first year followed by a course in the 201-239 range. Students are also encouraged to take Econ 241 (Statistics) as early as possible. In addition, majors are required to demonstrate achievement in Mathematics by taking Math 111 or Math 105-106. It is important to satisfy this Math requirement early since it is a prerequisite for admission to some sophomore courses in the department. The Economics Department strongly recommends Math 111. Those prospective majors who need more preparation in mathematics may take instead Mathematics 105 followed by Math 106 in the spring semester. For advising help, contact Prof. Char Weise (cweise@gettysburg.edu) or Sue Holz (sholz@gettysburg.edu).

EDUCATION

Students may begin the education program in their second semester of their first year by enrolling in Education 209. Students need to be registered in the teacher certification program by going to the Education Department Office (Weid 106) and filling out the proper form or obtain permission from the instructor. All candidates for Teacher Certification must take 2 college-level math courses, a writing course, and an English or American Literature course within their first 2 years. Other courses relevant to specific certification checklists can also be taken as follows beginning with the first semester:

- Those seeking certification in Elementary Education should select from Anth 103, History 106 or 110, Political Science 101, or a math course.
- Those seeking certification in secondary English should select Anth 103 and/or a math course.
- Those seeking certification in secondary mathematics or the sciences should select Math 111 and/or Anth 103.
- Those seeking certification in world languages (French, German, Latin or Spanish) should select Anthropology 103 and a math course.
- Those seeking certification in secondary social studies should select from Anthropology 103, Political Science 101, Sociology 101, or Environmental Studies 162 in the spring and a math course.

For advising help, in June, contact Prof. Virginia Lea (vlea@gettysburg.edu) ; in July, contact Prof. Divonna Stebick (dstebick@gettysburg.edu).

ENGLISH

Prospective majors in English should elect one of the First Year Seminars (FYS) which count toward an English major (FYS 137, 165, 169-2, 173, 176, 178-2, and 191-3) or Eng 111, 112, or 113. All of these courses will also fulfill the College's first-year writing requirement. If a prospective English major has exempted from the first-year writing requirement, he or she might want to begin with a foundational level literature course (ENG 210-260). For advising help, contact Linda Miller (lmiller@gettysburg.edu).

ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

Prospective majors should take ES 125 and 196 in the first year. Students interested in environmental policy topics should also consider taking Pol 101, 103, or 104 or Econ 101. Students interested in environmental science topics should consider taking two semesters of a basic natural science (Bio 111-112, Chem 105 or 107-108, Phys 103-104 or Phys 111-112). Math 105-106, 107 or 111 is also encouraged. Students who begin the Environmental Studies major as sophomores, should take ES 196 and either ES 211 or ES 223 during their second year. For advising help, contact Prof. Sarah Principato (sprincip@gettysburg.edu).

FRENCH

Prospective French majors should take French 300 during the fall semester, pending placement at that level. All students who have previously studied French and wish to continue the language MUST take a placement test. Students should put French on the pre-registration form and we will add the proper course level from the results of your placement test. (For placement instructions see Study of a Second Language in the Orientation Booklet.) If you wish to schedule French but are unable to register for a section matching your language placement results, contact Florence Journey (fjourney@gettysburg.edu).

GERMAN

Prospective majors should take German 301 in the fall, pending placement at that level, but those who begin with German 201 can still schedule the remaining coursework for the major program without difficulty. A department placement test will be required of all students enrolling in German except for those who have never studied German before. Students should put German on the pre-registration form and we will add the proper course level from the results of your placement test. German 101 is appropriate for the true beginner and meets five days a week. (For instructions about how to take the placement test see Study of a Second Language in the Orientation Booklet.)

GLOBALIZATION STUDIES

Prospective majors must take all four foundation courses: Anthropology 103, Economics 101, History 110, and either POL 103 or POL 104. These may be taken in any order and ideally should be completed by the end of the second year. Students should be aware of the fact that because they design their regional and thematic tracks for this major, they must complete an application for the major. For advising help, contact Prof. Caroline Hartzell (chartzel@gettysburg.edu).

HEALTH SCIENCES

Prospective majors in Health Sciences should take Bio 101 in the fall and Bio 112 in the spring and HS 112 in either the fall or spring semester.

Health Sciences Student Handbook

(http://www.gettysburg.edu/academics/health\_exercise\_science/documents/HSDepartmentStudentHandbook2007-2008.pdf)

HISTORY

Prospective majors should take a 100-level History course. 200 level courses are also open to first-year students who are considering a major in history. 300 level courses can only be taken with permission of the instructor. For advising help, contact Rebecca Barth (rbarth@gettysburg.edu).

INTERDISCIPLINARY STUDIES

Students may create their own majors through the Individual Major Program administered by the Interdisciplinary Studies Committee. Courses listed in the College Catalogue under the category of Interdisciplinary Studies involve subject matter and methods of study from more than one discipline or department. For advising help, contact Cindy Helfrich (chelfric@gettysburg.edu) or Prof. Marta Robertson (mroberts@gettysburg.edu).

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

Students with a major in International Affairs must also have a disciplinary major or a major in another interdisciplinary field approved by the International Affairs program director. In the first and second year, students should take Economics 101 and one of the regional economics courses numbered from 212 to 217, or 222, Political Science 103, and History 110. For advising help, contact Prof. Eileen Stillwaggon (estillwa@gettysburg.edu) or Prof. Donald Borock (dborock@gettysburg.edu).

ITALIAN

All students who have previously studied Italian and wish to continue the language MUST take a placement test. Students should put Italian on the pre-registration form and we will add the proper course level from the results of your placement test. (For placement instructions see Study of a Second Language in the Orientation Booklet.)

If you wish to schedule Italian but are unable to register for a section matching your language placement results, between July 22 and August 5, you can contact the Department Co-Chair, Prof. Alan Perry (apery@gettysburg.edu).

JAPANESE

Prospective majors in Japanese Studies should choose Jpn 101 if they have never studied the language previously. Students may choose Jpn 201 if they have had at least two years of prior study but are encouraged to consult with the faculty before pre-registering. Contact Eleanor Hogan (ehogan@gettysburg.edu). Final placements are determined by an interview and exam that takes place during orientation week.

LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES

First-year students wishing to pursue the combined Latin American Studies-Spanish major, or the Latin American Studies minor, should take the Spanish placement test and sign up for the appropriate level Spanish-language course. (Minors can fulfill the language requirement with a demonstrated proficiency in Spanish, French, or Portuguese.) Prospective majors and minors should consider taking FYS 129, FYS 195, or FYS 199-2. Sign up for LAS 140 Introduction to Latin American Studies, which is required for majors and strongly recommended for minors. Students should contemplate studying abroad in Latin America on a college-affiliated program (required for majors) second semester sophomore year or during their junior year. For advising help, contact Carol Priest (cpriest@gettysburg.edu).

MANAGEMENT

Prospective majors in Management should take Economics 101 in the first year. If Econ 101 is taken in the first semester, first year students may take Mgt 111 and Mgt 155 in the spring. Students who are weak in mathematics should take Math 105-106 to prepare for Mgt 235, Quantitative Thinking in Management. Students considering a semester abroad must complete Mgt 235 by the end of the sophomore year. For advising help, contact Prof. Bennett Bruce (bbruce@gettysburg.edu).

Managing Your Major (http://www.gettysburg.edu/academics/management/pdf\_docs/ManagingYourMajor\_0708.pdf)

MATHEMATICS

Students considering a mathematics course should turn to the Mathematic Placement Guidelines found at the back of this announcement of courses booklet to determine the appropriate placement (also available on the department web page) or consult with a member of the department at 717-337-6630 or email bbajnok@gettysburg.edu.

Placement Guidelines (<http://www.gettysburg.edu/dotAsset/457627.pdf>)

MUSIC

B.S. in Music Education: Should take Music 141, First Year Seminar (with writing component) or Eng 101/111, a second language, a course in Integrative Thinking: Quantitative, Inductive and Deductive Reasoning, and Music 122 (.25). In the second semester, students should take Music 142, Music 212, Education 209, Music 149 (.25), and continue in their second language sequence. Music Education majors will begin working towards piano proficiency in the fall semester as advised by Conservatory faculty and should register for applied performance area instruction and appropriate ensembles in both semesters (see additional information below).

B.A. in music and music minors: Should take Music 141, a second language, a First Year Seminar, or Eng 101/ 111, one multiple inquiries goal course other than in the Arts, applied performance area instruction, and appropriate ensembles (see additional information below), and Music 142 and Music 212 in the second semester..

B Mus in Performance: Should take Music 157, Music 141, a second language, First Year Seminar, or Eng 101/ 111, or one multiple inquiries goal course other than in the Arts, and Music 142 and Music 212 in the second semester.

Please note: Admission to Music 141 is dependent upon the results of a placement test to be administered during class in the fall. An audition is required for admission into the major or minor program.

Applied music courses in Voice, Piano, Organ, Guitar, Woodwinds, Brass, Percussion, or Strings for music majors during the orientation period in August, and auditions/placements for music ensembles in Choir, Band and Orchestra will also be scheduled at the beginning of fall semester. For advising help, contact Prof. Kay Hoke (shoke@gettysburg.edu).

PHILOSOPHY

Students are encouraged to consider an introductory course in Philosophy early in their college career as an opportunity to enlarge their intellectual perspective and develop skills in reasoning and argument. Prospective majors should take either 101, 105, 107, 110, FYS 133 or 167-3 in their first year. For advising help, until June 15, contact Prof. Kerry Walters (kwalters@gettysburg.edu). After June 15, contact Prof. Steve Gimbel (sgimbel@gettysburg.edu).

PHYSICS and DUAL-DEGREE ENGINEERING

Students planning to major in Physics should take Physics 111 and Mathematics 111 or a higher level mathematics course. Candidates for the Dual-Degree Engineering Program should take Physics 111, Mathematics 111, a second language, English 101, or 111, or First Year Seminar that is writing intensive which satisfies the effective communication goal, or Economics 101 in the first semester. Dual-degree candidates should also give thought in the first year to which of the fifteen engineering majors they wish to pursue. For advising help, contact Prof. Tim Good (goodt@gettysburg.edu).

POLITICAL SCIENCE

Prospective majors must take three of four introductory courses: Political Science 101,102,103 or 104. These courses are intended to introduce the student to the major fields of political science. They may be taken in any order, but should be completed by the end of the fourth semester. The political science department also encourages majors to take Pol 215 (Methods in Political Science) by the end of their sophomore year. For advising help, contact Karen Goldberg (kgoldber@gettysburg.edu) or Prof. Robert Bohrer (rbohrer@gettysburg.edu).

PREMEDICAL/PREVETERINARY STUDENTS

Students planning to attend medical or veterinary school immediately after college should have completed Biology 101-112, (or Biology 111-112 if majoring in Biology), Chemistry 107-108, Chemistry 203-204, and Physics 103-104 (or 111-112), by the end of the junior year. This will prepare students to take the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) at this time. In order to keep this rigorous schedule, students should give careful consideration to planning their first year courses. While medical schools require that a student must have taken these courses to gain admission, they do not require any particular major.

Guide for Premedical Students (http://www3.gettysburg.edu/~jujones/health\_professions/Guide.pdf)

PSYCHOLOGY

Prospective majors may elect to take Psych 101 in either the fall or spring. Prospective majors would hope to complete Psych 205 by the end of the Sophomore year. MAJORS MUST ALSO COMPLETE TWO LABORATORY COURSES IN THE DIVISION OF NATURAL SCIENCES. Students who have received a 4 or better on the Psychology Advanced Placement Exam may consider registering for 200-level classes in the fall. For advising help, contact Prof. Rebecca Fincher-Kiefer (rfincher@gettysburg.edu), Prof. Bob D'Agostino (pdagosti@gettysburg.edu), Prof. Stephen Siviyy (ssiviyy@gettysburg.edu), or Prof. Kevin Wilson (kwilson@gettysburg.edu).

RELIGION

The Department of Religion focuses on the global, cross-cultural, and academic study of religion and is not affiliated with any sectarian religious tradition. Prospective majors and minors are encouraged to take Religion 101 as soon as possible and to take 100- or 200-level survey courses in as many different religious traditions possible.

SOCIOLOGY

Students interested in majoring in Sociology should take Sociology 101 during the first year. Sociology 101 is a prerequisite for almost all other Sociology courses. Students planning to study abroad during the junior year should ideally complete Sociology 101, at least two 200 level Sociology courses, and one of the 300 level sociology courses by the end of the sophomore year. For advising help, contact Andrea Cranga (acranga@gettysburg.edu).

SPANISH

Prospective majors should take Spanish 301 during the fall semester, pending placement at that level. All students who have previously studied Spanish and wish to continue the language MUST take a placement test. Students should put Spanish on the pre-registration form and we will add the proper course level from the results of your placement test. Spanish 101 is reserved for students who have never studied Spanish; it meets five days a week. For placement instructions see Study of a Second Language in the Orientation Booklet. If you have questions, contact Becky Best (bbest@gettysburg.edu).

THEATRE ARTS

Theatre is a vital part of the liberal arts education which Gettysburg College offers. Rooted in a sound academic program and fed by rigorous course offerings, it flowers in a variety of productions. You are encouraged to take one or more of the following theatre courses during your first year: Theatre Arts 105, Introduction to the Theatre (fall/spring); Theatre Arts 115, Theatre Production (spring); Theatre Arts 116, Introduction to Costume Design (fall); Theatre Arts 120, Fundamentals of Acting (fall/spring); Theatre Arts 163, Introduction to Dance (fall); Theatre Arts 203, History of Theatre Arts (spring); Theatre Arts 214, Survey of Dramatic Literature (fall); Theatre Arts 212, Fundamentals of Directing (fall); First Year Seminar 119-3, The Makings of the Great American Musical (fall); First Year Seminar 180-2: Dreaming in Color, The American Theatre (fall); First Year Seminar 112-3: Address Unknown: The Book that Jolted a Nation (fall)

You are also encouraged to attend first year students only auditions for our fall production of The Imaginary Invalid by Molière held on the first day of classes, Monday, August 31, from 4:00 PM – 6:30 PM: this will introduce you to our opening production and also for the fall Otherstage Series. The casts of these brief, stimulating Lunchtime Theatre pieces are often composed of first year students. For information, contact Dr. Susan Russell, chair, srussell@gettysburg.edu, or Carol Coon, Academic Office Administrator, ccoon@gettysburg.edu.

VISUAL ARTS

Students expecting to major in studio art should take VAS 141. Prospective majors in art history should take VAH 111 or VAH 120. Enrollment priority in any 100-level studio course is given to prospective studio art majors. ## WOMEN, GENDER, AND SEXUALITY STUDIES

The objective of Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies courses is to encourage students to analyze the roles, perspectives, and contributions of women. Through the examination of women's past history, present conditions, and future possibilities, students come to understand gender as a cultural experience. In Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies courses, students learn a number of methods for examining, as well as strategies for modifying, the conditions that affect all of our lives. Students may elect Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies as a major or a minor. Prospective majors and minors should begin their course work with WGS 120: Introduction to Women's Studies.
