DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH — Emerging Writer Lecturer Academic Year 2015-2016

One-year appointment, beginning August 2015, for a creative writer who plans a career that involves college-level teaching, to teach three courses per semester, including Introduction to Creative Writing and an advanced course in the writer’s genre, as well as to assist with departmental writing activities. Mentorship for teaching and assistance in professional development provided.

M.F.A. or Ph.D. with creative dissertation required. Teaching experience and literary magazine publications are essential. Successful candidates in recent years have had a new or forthcoming book. Competitive salary.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/1163. A letter of application, curriculum vitae, and statement of teaching philosophy should be submitted. Requests for dossiers will be made after an initial review. Review of applications will begin on February 15, 2014, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Fred Leebron at fleebron@gettysburg.edu.

This position is nonrenewable.

Gettysburg College is a highly selective liberal arts college located within 90 minutes of the Baltimore/Washington metropolitan area. Established in 1832, the College has a rich history and is situated on a 220-acre campus with an enrollment of approximately 2,600 students. Gettysburg College celebrates diversity and welcomes applications from members of any group that has been historically underrepresented in the American academy. The College assures equal employment opportunity and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, and disability.